Technical Due Diligence Nears Finalisation

The Company is also to confirm that its technical due diligence on the Kitotolo and Kiambi Lithium Projects is nearing finalisation. Site investigations at both the Kitotolo and Kiambi Lithium Projects which commenced on 18 August 2017 have now been completed. Detailed geological and structural mapping work and trenching has been undertaken and aimed at the identification of pegmatitic outcrops. Rock chip and channel samples have been taken and dispatched to ALS in Lubumbashi and Johannesburg to confirm spodumene mineralization.

Mr James Sullivan, who was appointed by the Company to complete the technical due diligence review of the Kitotolo and Kiambi Lithium Projects (refer ASX Announcement 14 August 2017) is currently preparing a Due Diligence Report with his recommendations that is to be submitted to the Board.

Mr Sullivan has 20 years' geological experience and has previously completed due diligence reviews and assessments and managed lithium focused exploration activities in the Manono-Kitotolo area and is well qualified to complete the work on behalf of the Company and its shareholders.

The Due Diligence Report will provide a summary of the activities and results from the site investigations and work completed over the past 4 weeks. It will further make a number of recommendations based on his conclusions as to the prospectivity of the Kitotolo and Kiambi Lithium Projects. The Company will look to announce the conclusions and recommendations of the Due Diligence Report along with results from some of the assay results in October 2017.

The license area was reported by the license holders as having outcropping pegmatites which are considered highly prospective for lithium bearing mineralisation. The Company will review the summary findings from its technical consultants on the preliminary due diligence work undertaken before making any firm commitments to this license area.

Legal Due Diligence Completed

The Company is also pleased to confirm that it has finalised its legal due diligence on the Kitotolo and Kiambi Lithium Projects.
