The buying process of Rent.com.au's RenterCover insurance will be fully digital and integrated into RENT's unique Renter Resume process. It allows renters to pick their level of cover, set up payments details and immediately enjoy the full coverage offered by the policy. There's no quote required, so the renter can purchase this insurance faster and much more easily than most products on the market.

RENT's latest customer research revealed that 55% of Aussie renters did not have their contents insured. In the 18-39 age bracket, the number of uninsured renters was 73%. Most renters cited the cost as the number one reason for not insuring themselves.

RENT's Chief Executive Officer, Greg Bader, said the new product offering was about making it more affordable and easier for renters to cover themselves: "Contents insurance can be confusing, expensive and not always transparent. Even something as simple as seeing the price can be a real challenge with some of the 'old fashioned' providers. We want to change all that, making the product easy to understand and great value in the market.

It really concerns us that the majority of renters are not covered. We hear stories every day from our customers about the impact lost and stolen items has on them.

Our products are unique because we recognise and value renters. It's part of our broader strategy of understanding our customers' broader needs and making sure we can meet them – effectively offering a one-stop shop for anyone in the rental market."

Mr Bader said the opportunity to work with a company of Chubb's scale and experience in this market was part of RENT's mission to bringing best-of-breed products to the rental community. "Chubb's global expertise within the insurance market, together with our commitment to provide Australia's 7 million renters with the best possible experience allows us to provide renters with contents cover for a low price. We look forward to building upon this partnership further into the future."

Chubb Country President for Australia and New Zealand, Jarrod Hill said "The research conducted by our partner Rent.com.au revealed that renters in Australia are underinsured. In response, we have combined Chubb's underwriting expertise with RENT's deep knowledge of the rental market to craft a contents insurance solution for Australian renters to access the cover they need".
