

Experienced sales executive John Munden to advise Property Connect as LiveOffer rollout continues

Sydney, 19 April 2018: Property Connect Holdings (ASX: PCH) has appointed a former global sales leader from Apple, John Munden, to advise the company on its sales process and customer experience for onboarding property managers.

John Munden will work closely with Property Connect CEO Darren Patterson and brings to the company two decades' sales operations and customer service expertise on both the B2B and B2C environments. Most relevantly and recently, Munden was involved at a senior level in building Apple's retail business into one of the company's growth engines in Europe and APAC.

CEO Darren Patterson said, "John will be of immediate benefit as we collaboratively work with and introduce our platform to more property managers and agents. He is passionate about delivering a great customer experience and ensuring new clients are efficiently onboarded."

The LiveOffer online rental platform has now successfully transacted in three states with different real estate managers in recent months. A feature of the LiveOffer trials has been the platform's ability to optimise outcomes for each participant in the leasing process.
