

Emu NL (EMU) has appointed Tim Staermose as a non-executive director.

Tim Staermose has 23 years' equity capital markets and equity research experience. He worked at international sell-side equity brokerage firms in South Korea and Hong Kong, including Banque Indosuez (now part of Credit Agricole) in the late 1990s and Lehman Brothers in the early 2000s. Following his career in sell-side equity research, Tim has worked as an independent researcher and stock-picker for a series of private research firms, including ones focussed specifically on natural resources, gold, and mining investments.

Today, Tim manages investments and advises high net worth individuals and family offices on stock market investing around the world. He also serves as Chief Investment Strategist for sovereignman.com, a leading online subscription-based publication with over 100,000 readers in more than 100 countries.

He has prior public company board experience in Australia with US Residential Limited, where he served as a Non-Executive Director from January to December 2017.

EMU's Chairman, Peter Thomas, said "We are absolutely delighted to have someone of Tim's calibre come aboard. Tim adds to the great depth of the Board's skills sets whilst, importantly, greatly extending EMU's reach to equity market participants, especially outside Australia."
