

Mr Craig Stallan appointed as Chief Operating Officer

Release Date: 1 July 2014

Senex Energy Limited (Senex, ASX: SXY) is pleased to announce the appointment of experienced oil and gas executive Mr Craig Stallan as Chief Operating Officer.

In the role of Chief Operating Officer (COO), Mr Stallan will be responsible for all Senex operations in South Australia's Cooper-Eromanga Basin, commencing in August 2014.

Senex Managing Director Ian Davies welcomed Mr Stallan to the Senex team, commenting that his appointment reflected the company's strategic growth ambitions.

"We are very pleased to have secured the services of such an experienced executive to support our core business as we plan for an extended period of growth. Craig is well qualified to take our rapidly growing business to the next level," Mr Davies said.

ABOUT CRAIG STALLAN

Mr Stallan has extensive senior executive experience in Australia's oil and gas industry. He is currently General Manager Upstream South Australia for Santos Limited, responsible for the company's upstream South Australian assets in the Cooper Basin.

Mr Stallan began working with Santos in 2006 and has fulfilled a number of key downstream, technical and upstream management roles. His responsibilities have ranged from delivery of all that company's Eastern Australia capital maintenance programs to delivery of threefold growth in the Cooper basin execution program.

He holds a Bachelor of Engineering (Electrical/Electronic) with Honours from Adelaide University.
