

Project manager appointed for Solomon Islands Isabel Nickel Project

Axiom Mining Limited (“Axiom” or “the Company”) takes another step forward on its Isabel Nickel Project with the appointment of General Manager Project Development Mr Neil Jansen.

Axiom CEO Mr Ryan Mount said, “We are pleased to welcome a talented industry veteran to drive the development of one of the Pacific’s largest nickel laterite deposits, after emerging successful and unencumbered after three years of litigation.

“Axiom is on a fast track to establish a direct shipping of ore operation for the Isabel Nickel Project within 12 to 18 months, and experienced leadership on the ground is essential to achieving this goal.”

Mr Mount said Mr Jansen brings to Axiom an impressive 35-year track record in project and operations management.

Mr Jansen’s career highlights in Australia include managerial leadership roles for BHP Billiton on the Olympic Dam and Cannington projects.

He has 13 years’ mining experience in Papua New Guinea, which includes positions as General Manager of Highlands Pacific Limited’s Ramu Project (a large nickel cobalt laterite deposit) and Group Operations Manager of the Newcrest/Harmony Gold joint venture’s Wafi Golpu Project.

Mr Jansen holds a Bachelor of Engineering (Hons) in Mining Engineering from NSW University and a Master of Business Administration from the University of Queensland.

He is also a member of the Australasian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy.
