ANNOUNCEMENT FOR RELEASE TO THE MARKET

MAZU ALLIANCE LIMITED

ASX: MZU

Appointment of Chief Buddhist Adviser

The Company announces that it has appointed Lama Tsewang Rigzin as the Company's Chief Buddhist Adviser to advise the Company on various Buddhist affairs. Lama Tsewang is the religious leader of the Tibetan Buddhism Nyingma Sect.

Lama Tsewang has studied Buddhism law at Zha Na Temple (in Changdu, Tibet), Yarchen Vddiyana Meditation Monastery (in Sichuan, China), and Larung Gar Five Sciences Buddhist Academy (in Sichuan, China).

Lama Tsewang is the current abbot of the Zha Na Temple in Gongjue County, in the Changdu Prefecture of Tibet. This is a significant Buddhist temple with over 200 Buddhist lamas and grounds exceeding 800 hectares that include schools, an Institute of Buddhist Studies and an orphanage.

Lama Tsewang is a frequent traveller across China to propagate Buddhism within the Han nationality. He has followers across the world, and is a notable humanitarian. He and his lamas frequently participate in earthquake and disaster relief operations, and raise donations for these causes.

The Company also refers to its announcement of 8 January 2014 wherein it advised that to strengthen the Company's operations in the development of its 3,600 private temples and cultural halls, the Company is forming key strategic partnerships with aligned Taoist and Buddhist faiths.

In furthering this strategy, the Company is appointing internationally recognised religious dignitaries as advisers to the Company, and in January 2014 appointed Mr Taochen Chang as the Company's Chief Adviser for Taoist affairs. Mr Chang is the 'Heavenly Master', the position allocated to a religious head of the Taoist movement. That position has been passed through 64 generations, and Mr Chang is a 64th generation descendant of the family and the current Heavenly Master.

The appointments of Mr Taochen Chang as Chief Taoist Adviser and Lama Tsewang Rigzin as Chief Buddhist Adviser complete a significant milestone for the Company in achieving broader recognition for its Wushi Mazu City project, and establishing stronger intercommunity relationships.
