

Just Retirement integrates GBST technology to strengthen its market leading retirement proposition

GBST Holdings Limited today announced that it has signed an agreement with Just Retirement, the UK based retirement income specialist to deliver its Composer® platform. Just Retirement has integrated GBST's award winning Composer® solution to diversify its retirement proposition by introducing a platform offering targeted at middle Britain customers.

Stephen Lowe, group communications director at Just Retirement said; "Just Retirement is diversifying its retirement proposition for middle Britain customers. In addition to providing modern solutions that deliver an individually underwritten guaranteed income for life, we now have the capability to provide the market with a wider choice of retirement propositions. Initially we will provide middle Britain customers with a solution to secure pension savings, not required to generate a guaranteed income for life, in a tax efficient environment supported by a small range of passive funds. This will enable people to mix-and-match their retirement savings, to ensure their regular expenditure is covered by a guaranteed income for life and keep any additional savings flexible for those just-in-case moments of unplanned irregular expenditure."

Rob DeDominicis, CEO of GBST Wealth Management, said; "We have long been at the forefront of the retirement savings market and provide flexible, configurable technology to a number of leading pension providers and administrators. This agreement with another leading retirement product specialist illustrates the capability of our proposition within this market. Although the pensions freedoms announcements earlier this year took many pension providers by surprise, our technology is flexible enough to adapt without incurring huge development costs, ensuring that our clients can move quickly to meet evolving customer needs and seize competitive advantage within the changing regulatory environment."
