HJB Partners with Workible

Strategic Alliance with Workible, a leading recruitment technology provider and online recruitment solution

HJB Corporation Limited (Company) is pleased to announce that its wholly-owned subsidiary, Hamilton James & Bruce (Australia) Pty Ltd (HJB), has entered into a strategic alliance agreement (Strategic Alliance) with Workible (www.workible.com.au), a leading recruitment technology provider and online recruitment solution.

The Strategic Alliance includes the potential for Workible to offer job services to employers that HJB has a relationship with, as well as offering the provision of training and job opportunities to job seekers that HJB has a relationship with. Workible will be providing the technology and fulfillment capability, whereas HJB will be providing access to its database of employers and candidates, with the revenue received from the Strategic Alliance being split between HJB and Workible.

Workible is an HR Technology company that optimises and automates the management of the employer-candidate relationship through short-listing, matching and personalisation services; reducing the time taken by employers to select candidates.

By powering the mobile-first WorkibleJobs marketplace, as well as custom job platforms for education providers, companies and communities, Workible gains unprecedented insight into the composition, movement and requirements of both sides of the Australian workforce.
