JCT to begin IoT Project for Disability

Xped Limited (ASX: XPE) (“Xped” or “the Company”) wishes to advise its subsidiary company JCT Healthcare Pty Ltd (“JCT”) has begun working on a smart hub technology project for delivery to Disability SA.

JCT is a solution provider to the disability and healthcare industries. They have been responsible for the message system in the new Royal Adelaide Hospital and have recently won a contract with Disability SA.

Under the project, JCT will develop a smart hub technology, enabling people with a disability to control functions in their home from a tablet or phone, from turning on the coffee machine to contacting their case manager.

Xped will assist JCT by incorporating its ADRC technology into the product development used in the project and the Company has provided $350,000 working capital to JCT to begin expansion of its existing NurseCall business and assist project development.

JCT’s operations will be moving to the new Tonsley advanced manufacturing precinct in South Australia, while the company’s R&D, software and hardware development teams have already moved into BioSA’s Thebarton Incubator.

Mr Eddie Jackson, Chief Executive Officer at JCT commented “BioSA have been a supporter of JCT over the past 3 years through $230,000 funding to develop a web-based messaging system, which is now basis for all our current technologies. We look forward to starting this new project in the Incubator residency and working with the Xped development team to incorporate their technologies and product mix”
