Product Registration Launch for ADRC Enabled Devices

Xped Limited (ASX: XPE) ("Xped" or "the Company") wishes to advise it has been invited to attend and showcase its product registration system at the upcoming Microsoft Partner Summit in late September.

The company has committed to developing the initial product registration system on the Microsoft Azure Cloud Platform following discussions with Microsoft and expects around 300 Microsoft Partners to attend the upcoming event.

The product registration system will enable consumers a simple and effective method to register products purchased with manufacturers of ADRC enabled devices for warranty purposes.

The system will also provide the manufacturer with the capability of direct engagement with the end consumer where they may wish to offer extended warranties and other promotional offers to value add for consumers.

Xped CEO Athan Lekkas commented "In addition to recent positive developments with Telink Semiconductor, the Company continues to progress its development of services and functionality that are core to the ADRC service platform and the product registration system is a key component that fits into our vision of Making Technology Easy Again"
