

5 August 2016

Matrix Launches New Corporate Website

Matrix Composites & Engineering Ltd (ASX:MCE) is pleased to announce the launch of its new corporate website at <http://www.matrix-corp.org>.

The establishment of Matrix's new corporate website is a result of the Company's decision to develop a separate corporate website focusing on the dissemination of information relevant to investors and other interested parties and a product specific site relating primarily to Matrix's customers and industry.

Matrix's original website (<http://www.matrixengineered.com>) has been restructured as a product specific website and has relaunched with customer specific product news and other related information.

-ends-

For further information please contact Aaron Begley, Chief Executive Officer on +61 8 9412 1200 or email aaron.begley@matrixengineered.com

About Matrix Composites & Engineering (MCE)

Matrix Composites & Engineering ('Matrix') manufactures and supplies engineered products and services to the global energy sector. Matrix has an established reputation for developing and utilising advanced composite and polymer materials technologies and innovative manufacturing processes. This means its products are stronger, lighter and longer lasting, and can be manufactured and delivered within shorter timeframes.