BRIERTY AWARDED $30 MILLION CONTRACT

Highlights:

- $30 million project
  - Work to commence in September and for a 30 month period
  - Increased utilisation of plant and equipment currently not engaged during that period

Diversified contractor Brierty Limited (ASX: BYL) is pleased to announce it has been awarded a $30 million contract from Newmont Mining to perform civil works at Newmont's Boddington gold mine, located approximately 120 kilometres south east of Perth.

Under the contract, Brierty will provide mining services for the mine site over a 30 month period, with work to commence in September 2016.

Brierty Chief Executive Officer Ray Bushnell said the contract added a long-term civil project to the business, adding to the number of civil projects Brierty has provided to mining companies.

"Brierty's ability to win this contract demonstrates the diversity of our civil contracting offering," Mr Bushnell said.

"It also recognises the ability for Brierty to seamlessly move between civil and mining work utilising the same personnel and fleet."

"The contract provides increased utilisation of existing plant and equipment and brings our order book to $286 million."
