APS selects Global Health as preferred provider for Secure Message Delivery (SMD) and Practice Management software

17 May 2016: Global Health is pleased to announce a preferred supplier agreement with the Australian Psychological Society (APS) for the promotion and supply of the ReferralNet Secure Message Delivery (SMD) platform, MasterCare EMR clinical application for mental health and practice management system (PMS).

APS is the peak national body for the psychology profession with over 22,000 members, representing over 60% of registered psychologists in Australia.

APS Executive Manager, Harry Lovelock, commented:

“Over 15,000 psychologists are registered to provide psychological services under Medicare via referral arrangements by GPs. While a large number use technology in their practices, the vast majority of these practitioners are not eHealth compliant. Without eHealth compliant software, they are unable to access the My Health Record. The suite of Global Health products covered by this agreement will encourage compliance with national standards relating to secure message delivery (SMD), privacy and security requirements to enable eHealth compliance so they can use My Health Record in the future.”

Global Health CEO, Mathew Cherian, commented:

“The APS agreement is a key endorsement of Global Health’s position as the market leader for mental health practitioners. The company’s ReferralNet platform for secure electronic exchange of correspondence and our suite of practitioner applications for case management (MasterCare EMR), practice management and national eHealth connectivity (MasterCare Connect) applications will support the APS as it encourages eHealth compliance across its membership base.”

This represents a significant opportunity for Global Health to further develop its mental health market share (3000 practitioners already use Global Health products), drive productivity gains for practitioners, and improve outcomes for mental health patients.
