Aspermont launches Mines and Money Americas

Aspermont Ltd (ASX: ASP) is pleased to announce the launch of Mines and Money Americas in partnership with the Ontario Government.

The conference will take place in Toronto from 26 – 28 September and aims to replicate the success of the Mines and Money conference series established in 2002 by Mining Journal in London and subsequently rolled out in Melbourne, Hong Kong and now in Toronto. Mines and Money is recognised as the leading conference series for the global mining industry.

Founder sponsors for Mines and Money Americas include BMO Capital Markets, DRA, IBK Capital, KPMG, PWC, Scotia Bank ,Silver Wheaton ,SRK ,the Toronto Stock Exchange, Torys LLP and Zimtu Capital.

Key presentations will be delivered by recognised leaders in the world mining industry including Robert Friedland of Ivanhoe Mines, David Harquail of Franco Nevada, Frank Holmes of US Global, Rick Rule of Sprott and Randy Smallwood of Silver Wheaton. This is an important new conference for North America as over 100 companies will present and over 50 companies will exhibit.

Aspermont Managing Director Alex Kent said “We are proud to extend our Mines and Money brand to the Americas with support from the Ontario Government, leading North American banks and leading lights of the global mining industry.

“We are pleased that our inaugural conference in Toronto coincides with a strong recovery of investor interest in the mining sector with exhibition space sold out 3 months before the event.

“Mines and Money Americas, the largest event launch by Aspermont to date, has been made possible by our key position as information and service providers to the global mining industry. Mines and Money is one of a number of Aspermont products that are leveraged to improving market conditions. We see signs of recovery in other revenue streams within the group and both digitalisation and recent cost restructuring will enable us to further capitalise on a sustained upturn in the cycle.”
