Farm Pride Foods – Today

There have been a number of significant milestones over the last two years including:

- Introduction of a simplified business model
- New CEO & management team
- Streamlined management
- Positive year end results
- ACCC Egg Cartel judgement was in our favour. ACCC appeal remains outstanding

The Australian Egg Industry

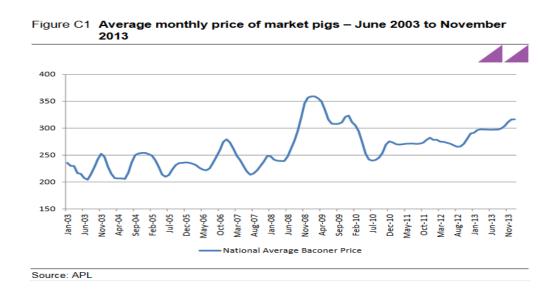

Farm Pride has experienced a significant increase in investor interest over the last two years but,

"Yesterday, Lion Dairy managing director Peter West said the company would also begin transporting its excess milk to South Australia due to having "more milk than we need in Western Australia".

"At the moment with spring milk flush and our current sales volumes, we have more milk than we need in Western Australia," Mr West said.

the Egg Industry lives with cycles or outside forces including weather, grain, over production and disease the same as many other agricultural industries. For example there was a lack of investment across the industry contributing to an egg shortage. That has changed very quickly and now we see the potential for over production which could have an impact on margins over the next 12 to 18 months.

Shareholder Speculation

- Recently there was some unhelpful speculation on a stock market forum about disease at one or more of our farms.
- Despite the fact that this was uninformed it is not our role to monitor or regulate that speculation.
- For the record there have been no Emergency Animal Diseases (EAD) such as AI and ND at Farm Pride.
- However, there are other less virulent diseases that have the potential to be present and may affect poultry production on all egg farms.
- Diseases are not new. Management and control is usually by a combination of vaccination, biosecurity and hygiene as we have in the past.

Shareholder Expectations

We have a small management team that must remain focused on the business.

We cannot control shareholder speculation.

"...at the end of the day earnings speak for themselves...."

Impact of the Recent High Rainfall

- Although our farms have been affected by the recent wet weather especially in Victoria, there has been no damage to flocks or sheds.
- Ridley Agriproducts our largest feed supplier have reported the biggest issue was getting access to grain because of the heavy rainfall. Old crop pricing is up because of the rain but the new crop in December is expected to push pricing back and at this stage it still looks like a record crop in Australia and globally.
- As a result we will wait until December before locking in further wheat contracts.
- Despite some waterlogging in some areas it looks like there will be a lot of grain around this season but it may present some quality challenges

Shareholder value proposition – long term strategy

Safety

All Injury Frequency Rate ("AIFR") calculated as the number of injuries per million hours worked. Includes permanent and casual and employees. Includes lost time injuries, medical and restricted work injuries.

Brand reputation has become a critical driver of repeat purchase.

Food in particular is increasingly being sold on its provenance – both the transparency of the supply chain and where and how it is grown, harvested and processed.

Free range products have been receiving significant focus and attention.

ORIGIN CERTIFICATION

Farm Pride has partnered with Oritain, a world leader in scientifically proving the origin of products.

This is an audit process which will provide for the independent certification of Farm Pride Foods free range eggs.

The result is that Farm Pride free range eggs can be guaranteed as being sourced from free range farms supported by a robust scientific approach to supply chain transparency.

This will provide comfort to our customers and consumers, and confidence in the knowledge that what they are buying is what they will receive.

01

Authentic egg samples are collected from the farm

02

The samples are analysed in a laboratory to identify unique properties

03

An origin fingerprint representing the farm of origin is created

04

Fingerprint stored in Oritain database

05

Samples can be tested against the origin fingerprint

NA

If the sample doesn't match the origin fingerprint further investigation is required

For Farm Pride, the ability to transparently guarantee the origin of free range eggs is becoming increasingly important.

This guarantee will build brand trust and protect the brand from any potential fraud.

In response to changing consumer demand and buying habits, Farm Pride Foods have moved production investment to non-cage methods.

KEY CHANGES

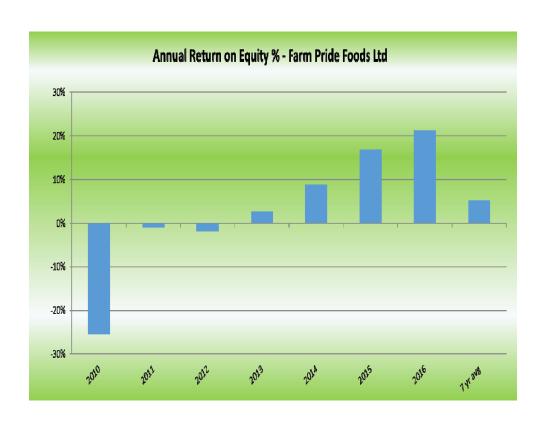

»New capacity for 90,000 free range bird in 2016.

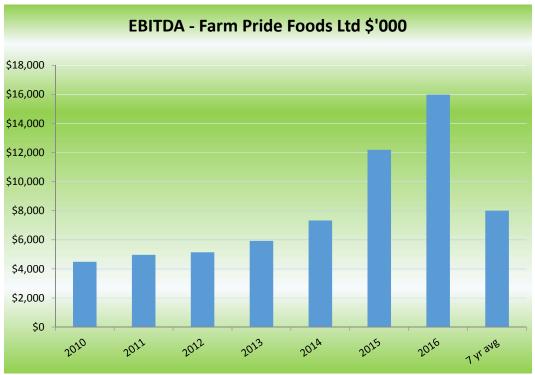

»Increasing product offerings by varying stock density ranging from 750 birds to 10,000 birds per hectare giving consumers more choice.

»Intention for Farm Pride's production capability to be in line with changing consumer demand.
