RPM's Advisory team wins NSW Mining Industry and Suppliers Conference Award

13 May 2016

RungePincockMinarco Limited (ASX: RUL) [RPM] is proud to announce its Advisory team has been awarded NSW Mining's Supplier of the Year award at the NSW Mining Industry & Suppliers Awards Dinner in Sydney last night.

In a celebration of the people and businesses that make NSW mining strong amidst a backdrop of low commodity prices and challenging economic conditions, this award recognises RPM as a success story and Australasia's leading Mining Advisory company.

Speaking of this achievement, RPM's Executive General Manager – Advisory, Philippe Baudry said "We could not be prouder of the achievements of our Australian Advisory team in receiving this award. The drop in commodity prices has been steeper and has gone on for longer than anyone in the industry anticipated. Mining companies have done a remarkable job of reducing their cost of production. However, much of the low and medium hanging fruit in this space has now been picked from the tree."

"As a supplier to the industry, we have focused on being a provider of genuine technical capability and delivering a high quality offering rather than simply capacity and have invested heavily in integrating our Advisory expertise with our industry-leading software solutions to ensure we provide the best possible level of service and outcomes for our clients. Through the delivery of services to our customers – predominately mining companies and the financial services industry – as well as active engagement in key industry bodies – Austmine, AUSIMM and the Sydney Mining Club – RPM has not only illustrated their commitment to the NSW Minerals industry but to the entire mining ecosystem. RPM's active engagement is evidenced in the wide use of RPM's mine planning and costing software in many of NSW's major mining assets, our advisory services support of the development of new and existing operations and our involvement in investor-related activities in the NSW resource sector."

This year's NSW Mining Industry and Suppliers Conference is a meeting of like-minded mining companies and service providers which provides a chance for discussion and collaboration during such challenging economic times.

Mr Baudry concluded by saying "RPM's internationally renowned Advisory team prides itself on being active members of the industry and an example of how innovative operating practices can ensure resilience in such a tough market. Our advisory team of technical mining experts focus intently on delivering the RPM Global Advisory Advantage – a tailored, mining industry workhorse powered to partner with clients to unlock latent capability from mining operations and to provide judicious investment advice for investment clients."
