Company Announcement

Delta SBD adds to development equipment, positioning for ongoing growth

Delta SBD, a leading provider of mining services, announces the acquisition of coal driveage development equipment, positioning the company well for additional contract work.

The equipment includes: a continuous miner; a feeder breaker; four ram cars; two personnel transporters; a shuttle car; two substations; two auxiliary ventilation fans; a pipe trailer; two load haul dump vehicles (LHDs); a Brumby tool carrier; and two distribution control boxes.

The acquisition is in addition to the new continuous miner purchase announced in August 2011, which is due for delivery in mid 2012.

Mr Stephen Bizzaca, Delta SBD's Chief Executive Officer commented: "The nature and quality of our equipment is paramount to being a successful services company and I am delighted we have been able to secure these valuable additions to our fleet in a market where roadway development equipment of this nature is in high demand.

"The acquisition demonstrates our focus on continually expanding our fit-for-purpose equipment to ensure we are in a strong position to respond to demand from clients as new mines come online and existing clients look to increase production.

"The forecast for growth across the coal industry remains positive which is driving production and expansion projects across Australia – consequently we are continuing to review a range of business opportunities for Delta SBD," he said.

Delta SBD currently operates six driveage development units for clients across the country. This additional equipment ensures the company has the capability to provide two complete development units.

The company has put in place appropriate external funding arrangements to finance the equipment.

About Delta SBD Limited

Delta SBD is one of the largest contract companies servicing the Australian underground coal mining industry. The Group is geographically diversified, with offices in Campbelltown NSW, Rutherford NSW and Mackay QLD.

The Group's objective is to provide value-add services to our clients by forging profitable long term partnerships. We provide each project/mine with competent work teams, fit for purpose equipment and excellent site management backed by a supportive corporate management group. We use safe and efficient work methods that enable on time completion of all works and services to the clients' requirements.

With improving demand and prices, the coal industry forecast looks positive. Structural changes in global coal markets and the cyclical rebound in global growth are driving increasing demand for thermal and metallurgical coal. For Australia this bodes well for increasing production and expansion projects. This should provide a continuing set of business opportunities for Delta SBD.
