YOJEE LAUNCHES PILOT PROGRAMS IN SINGAPORE

- Yojee enters pilot phase with two companies to trial new software
- Pilot and go-to-market programs remain a priority
- Launch on track for fourth quarter

Yojee Limited (ASX: YOJ), a pioneering platform technology company delivering powerful logistics and supply-chain management capabilities via its proprietary blockchain enabled software to the South East Asia and Australia, is pleased to announce the launch of its pilot program with companies in Australia and Singapore.

“We are really excited to be moving quickly from concept design and experimentation to implementation with these important in-market pilot programs,” said Ed Clarke, Managing Director of Yojee. “Yojee has selected two unique partners to road test the software in real operating environments across a large geography and extremely time sensitive situations. This will help us to improve the applications and move confidently into generating revenue towards the end of the year.”

In Singapore, SH Road Network is commencing piloting using the software to provide end-to-end logistics solutions specialising in transportation, project management, distribution management, warehousing services and e-commerce delivery country wide.

Singapore-based DishDash has also agreed to participate in the pilot program. DishDash is an innovative food delivery service and one of the fastest growing food-tech startups in Singapore.

“We have learned a lot in the past six months and continue to enhance our platform. Our goal is to change the world of freight movement and parcel delivery by optimising the experience for everyone and collaborating closely with our customers. Our first pilot customers are a testament to the diverse capabilities and benefits the Yojee platform offers,” Mr Clarke said.
