Statement by the Directors of Percheron Therapeutics Limited

Issued in response to the call for a General Meeting of the Members of the Company by David Kenley, entities associated with Gennadi Koutchin, Robert Moses, Gregory Peters, and Dale Reed, and their respective related parties

24 January 2025

1. Introduction

Dear Shareholder,

As you will see from the accompanying documents, five of the Company's shareholders, acting either individually or through their associated entities, representing just over 5% of the issued share capital, have called for a General Meeting of the Company's members. They seek to remove two of the three existing Directors, Dr Charmaine Gittleson and Dr James Garner, and to install two replacement Directors, Mr Gennadi Koutchin and Mr Gregory Peters.

It is unfortunate that the Mr Kenley, Mr Koutchin, Mr Moses, Mr Peters, and Mr Reed did not approach the Directors before submitting their call for a General Meeting. Had they done so, and had they given us a reasonable opportunity to try and find common ground in respect of their concerns, we would have sought at all costs to avoid the enormous distraction and cost of this process.

The requisitioning shareholders have provided a statement as to their rationale for the meeting and have outlined the credentials of Mr Koutchin and Mr Peters as putative Directors of the Company, and this is included with the Notice of Meeting. We urge you to read it carefully.

In the meantime, the Board provides here its own statement. We outline the progress that the Company has made over the relatively short period that we have been in office. We describe our strategy to restore the Company following the failure of the ATL1102 phase IIb trial in December 2024. And we respond to some of the points raised by Mr Koutchin and Mr Peters.

Dr Gil Price has indicated that he would not remain on the Board if the motions to remove Dr Gittleson and Dr Garner are successful. As such, we offer this statement on behalf of the entire Board. We have worked together as a team to bring Percheron this far, and we will respond to this challenge in the same way.

We understand that the negative outcome of the phase IIb trial is deeply disappointing for all who have been involved in the Company. We can assure you that the regret we feel as Directors is absolutely no less profound than that felt by our shareholders.

However, it is important to be clear that the trial did not fail as a result of any action or inaction by the Board, or the management team, or the third-party vendors who conducted the trial. The trial failed because ATL1102 was not, in the end, able to prove itself an effective therapy for Duchenne muscular dystrophy. That is, unfortunately, a possible outcome every time a company starts a clinical trial, and it is in fact the most common outcome in drug development. Indeed, this is the reason regulatory agencies rightly demand, on behalf of society, that we conduct robust clinical studies – so that patients can be sure of receiving only those medicines that are battle-tested in the demanding environment of a randomised-controlled trial.

What matters now is how we are able to right the Company and to create within it a new path forward to generate shareholder value. We have a clear plan to do that, and each of us has the experience of having done so before. We had begun to turnaround the challenged business that was Antisense Therapeutics, and we are well-equipped to continue that transformation.

Mr Koutchin and Mr Peters do not appear to have such a plan, nor do they have all the scientific and medical expertise necessary to assess biotech assets in order to develop such a plan, nor do they have experience in running a publicly listed life sciences company. We believe that their appointment to the Board would be profoundly against the interests of the Company and its shareholders, and we recommend that you vote AGAINST all resolutions put forward at this meeting. Every vote is important, we encourage every shareholder to exercise their right to determine the Company's future leadership.

Should you grant us the opportunity to continue as a Board, we can assure you that our single-minded focus will be on rebuilding Percheron, so that it can become the first-class drug development Company each of us joined the Board to create, so that we can recoup and grow, to the fullest extent possible, the value of your investments, and so that we can all move forward from this setback as swiftly and effectively as we can. We have already been working to these goals, and we will be resolute in continuing to do so for as long as we remain Directors of the Company.

Yours faithfully,

Dr Charmaine Gittleson
Chair of the Board

---

Dr Gil Price
Non-Executive Director
& Chair of Audit

Dr James Garner
Managing Director

2. Background to the Company

For the benefit of shareholders who may be new to the Company, the Directors offer the following remarks by way of historical orientation.

Percheron Therapeutics Limited (formally Antisense Therapeutics Limited) was incorporated in November 2000 and was listed on the Australian Securities Exchange in December 2001. It remains one of the oldest biotechnology companies listed on the ASX.

Since its inception, the Company has focused on the development of novel therapeutics for human use. The Company's entire pipeline to date – comprising three drugs code-named ATL1101, ATL1102, and ATL1103 – was developed through a partnership with Ionis Pharmaceuticals (NASDAQ:IONS), based in Carlsbad, CA.

Despite the theoretical promise of each of these assets, progress was slow during the first two decades of the Company's existence. ATL1101, a potential prostate cancer therapy, appears to have been abandoned by the Company around 2013. ATL1102 completed a phase II study in multiple sclerosis in 2009<sup>1</sup>. The asset was licensed to Teva Pharmaceuticals (NYSE: TEVA), but the license was terminated and the asset handed back<sup>2</sup>. ATL1103 completed a phase II study in acromegaly around 2014<sup>3</sup>. It was also licensed, to Strongbridge Biopharma plc, but that license was also handed back. The Company does not appear to have undertaken further development of the ATL1103 asset thereafter.

In around 2015, the Company pivoted the ATL1102 program to development in Duchenne muscular dystrophy (DMD). The rationale for doing so was some newly published research by Pinto-Mariz et al. which showed that CD49d, the target of ATL1102, was a potential target, and disease progression biomarker, for immunotherapy in DMD<sup>4</sup>. The drug successfully completed a phase IIa pilot study in DMD in 2020 with encouraging results<sup>5</sup>. However, the Company's failure to complete a nine-month toxicology study, as required by FDA, meant that no further clinical work was undertaken for some years.

Meanwhile, many of the key activities required in drug development were neglected. Early-phase studies to establish appropriate dosing were not performed. No clinical study report (CSR) for the phase IIa study was produced within a reasonable time period. This critical document captures all the results of the study, provides full detail as to the methods and design, undergoes stringent quality assurance, and is ultimately shared with investigators and regulatory agencies. Publication of the data in a peer-reviewed scientific journal was delayed. Safety data from all clinical programs conducted by the Company was not appropriately collated and required filings to FDA were not made.

Perhaps in recognition of the fact that a Board composed entirely of business people and scientists was not sufficient for the Company's needs, the Board appointed two highly experienced drug developers as Directors. Dr Charmaine Gittleson joined the Board in March 2021<sup>6</sup> and Dr Gil Price in October 2021<sup>7</sup>. The legacy Directors retired over following months, and Dr Gittleson became Chair of the Board in November 2021<sup>8</sup>.

Dr Gittleson and Dr Price inherited a company with some potentially strong scientific underpinnings, but with a pipeline that had spent over twenty years in development with little to show and, consequently, a weariness toward the Company's story among professional investors.

At the time, to the extent that the Company had a strategy for ATL1102, it was to develop it for the European market, a challenging approach even for a European company. In general, the Company did not possess all the necessary experience and expertise within the management team to progress the asset, and had relatively neglected the critical US market.

During 2022, the new Directors refocused the Company around ATL1102 in DMD, given the encouraging results seen in the completed phase IIa study. They designed and implemented a phase IIb study to confirm the drug's efficacy in this disease. They initiated a nine-month toxicology study to rectify deficiencies repeatedly identified by the United States Food & Drug Administration (FDA)<sup>9</sup>. And they raised capital to allow initiation of the planned phase IIb study, which occurred in June 2023<sup>10</sup>.

In August 2023, Dr James Garner joined the Company as CEO<sup>11</sup>. Dr Garner recruited highly experienced executives in the United States and Australia. He initiated an investor relations campaign which focused on repairing the Company's reputation among both institutional and retail investors. And he embarked on an aggressive program of outreach to potential partners, recognising that international commercialisation of ATL1102 would require the resources of a larger company.

In December 2024, the Company reported initial data from the phase IIb study of ATL1102, now known as avicursen<sup>12</sup>. Much to the disappointment of all involved, the drug showed no convincing evidence of activity in this disease, and the Board immediately made the difficult decision to abandon the ongoing clinical trial.

3. The Board's Track Record at Percheron

The three current Directors of the Company, being Dr Gittleston, Dr Price, and Dr Garner, have an average tenure on the Board of approximately three years. Dr Gittleston was most recently re-elected to the Board in November 2023, and Dr Price was re-elected in November 2024. During the period of their tenure, they have made important progress in advancing the Company's interests on behalf of its shareholders.

3.1 Rectification of Significant Deficiencies with US FDA

At the time Dr Gittleston and Dr Price joined the Board, the ATL1102 program had been on 'partial clinical hold' with the US FDA since at least August 2017<sup>13</sup>, meaning that the Company could only undertake clinical trials in the United States under very limited conditions. The principal reason for this was the FDA's requirement for a nine-month toxicology study in non-human primates, a routine requirement for drugs such as ATL1102 being developed in diseases such as DMD. These requirements were made clear to the Company as early as August 2017 and reiterated on several occasions thereafter.

Nine-month toxicology study commenced in 2022 and completed in 2024

Following the appointment of the new Board in 2021, the Company commenced work on a nine-month GLP toxicology study in 2022. The study began dosing in 2023 and was completed on schedule in 2024.

In the meantime, under the oversight of Dr Gittleston and Dr Price, the Company repaired other procedural deficiencies in respect of its regulatory obligations. For example, Data Safety Update Reports (DSURs) had not been filed for at least five years, despite this being a Federal requirement under US law. The Company has since been restored to full compliance in this and other key respects.

3.2 Implementation of an International Phase IIb Clinical Trial for Avicursen (ATL1102) in Duchenne Muscular Dystrophy

Under the previous Board, high-level plans had been developed for an international phase III trial of ATL1102 in DMD. In September 2021, the Company negotiated a Paediatric Investigational Plan (PIP) with the European Medicines Agency (EMA)<sup>14</sup>. The PIP committed the Company to perform a large phase III study in non-ambulant boys, as well as two further studies in ambulant boys.

This plan would have required a large number of patients over a significant period of time. The previous Board had internally costed the phase III study at $10-15 million. Discussion with a contract research organisation on commercial terms indicated a more plausible estimate of $70 million for the phase III study alone. With the assistance of Mr Koutchin as a corporate advisor, the Company

attempted to finance a phase III study but was unable to raise sufficient funds<sup>15</sup>.

The new Directors took the view that it was neither feasible nor appropriate to make such a substantial investment of shareholders' funds on the basis of just nine patients of data in the previous phase IIa study, especially in the absence of extended toxicology data or conventional phase I dose escalation data. They designed instead a focused phase IIb study, which was designed to validate the earlier data as quickly and efficiently as possible, while retaining the possibility of accelerated approval with supportive data. That study began implementation in 2022 and, following recruitment of a new clinical team, recruited its first patient in June 2023.

Under the leadership of Dr Garner, following his appointment as CEO in August 2023, the study was enhanced in several important respects. A fifth country was added to accelerate recruitment<sup>16</sup>. Additional data collection was added to the protocol to provide a broader and more qualitative evidence base in support of the drug. And a post-trial access program was implemented at the request of several investigators<sup>17</sup>.

Notwithstanding the disappointing outcome of this study, it is important to recognise the quality of its execution. In particular, the study enrolled quickly. Of the 65 industry-sponsored phase II and phase III DMD studies listed in ClinicalTrials.gov, the average time to primary completion is 2.8 years. For the Percheron study, it was 1.5 years, or nearly twice the speed of the industry benchmark.

Shareholders may note the failure of this study and ask whether this reflects poorly on its design. They should be assured that it does not, and that the primary goal of clinical trials is, above all else, to provide a definitive answer. It is a simple fact of the drug development business that the majority of drugs in development will fail. If they are to do so, it is in the interests of all concerned that their failure is determined as early and as definitively as possible. The phase IIb study of ATL11102 was designed to provide clarity, and it did so.

3.3 Extensive Partnering Campaign for ATL1102

In late 2023 and throughout 2024, the Company conducted an extensive outreach to potential licensees for ATL1102, as there had previously been limited activity in this area. Company executives, including Dr Garner, attended key international partnering conferences, such as the JP Morgan Healthcare Conference and the BIO International Convention. A confidential data room was established to permit effective due diligence by interested parties.

Company in contractual negotiations with multinational pharma partner at time of study termination

In total, the Company engaged with more than 50 potential partners, and the most advanced of these discussions resulted in an agreed non-binding term sheet and the initiation of contractual negotiations with a multinational pharmaceutical company during 2024. The Board had hoped to consummate these negotiations shortly after receiving the clinical trial data in December 2024. Unfortunately, as a result of the negative data, all such negotiations are now suspended indefinitely.

3.4 Rehabilitation of the Company Among the Investment Community

By the time the new Board took office in 2021, and despite Mr Koutchin's efforts in investor relations, the Company was regarded with a degree of weariness by the investment community, who noted slow progress in advancing the Company's pipeline.

The new Directors set about repairing the Company's reputation among professional investors through a simplified and more focused story and a tighter emphasis on execution.

Four equity research analysts covering Percheron at time of trial cancellation

Following the appointment of Dr Garner as CEO in 2023, the Company began a regular program of 'Open House Meetings', in which senior executives from the Company met with shareholders in capital cities at six-monthly intervals. The Company was invited to present at investor conferences, including in recent months the HealthInvest Conference and the Pitt Street Research Life Sciences Conference in September 2024, the Wilsons Drug & Device Conference in October 2024, and the Bell Potter Healthcare Conference in November 2024. In addition to the single equity research analyst who had been covering the stock through 2022, two others resumed coverage in 2023, and a fourth initiated coverage in 2024, providing the Company with the deepest level of research interest it had enjoyed since its founding.

At the beginning of 2024, the Company changed its name from Antisense Therapeutics to Percheron Therapeutics, following approval by shareholders at the 2023 AGM<sup>18</sup>. The rebranding was supported by a new website, deeper social media activity, and an extensive upgrade of the Company's corporate collateral and marketing materials.

3.5 Funding Completion of the Phase IIb Clinical Trial

The Company undertook capital raises in 2023 and 2024, raising $11.6 million and $14.9 million respectively. Both transactions were performed at a discount, as is almost universally the case for pre-revenue biotech companies. However, neither transaction incurred option coverage, and both were supported by well-regarded institutional investors.

The Board deliberately took the approach of performing several smaller transactions to fund the Company to key milestones, rather than funding the entire phase IIb trial in a single transaction, so as to minimise the dilution to shareholders. The 2024 raise was consequently performed at a 60% premium to the 2023 raise.

Substantial institutional investment in Percheron

Through these successive financings, the Company was able to attract significant institutional interest to the share register, including a substantial holding by Platinum Asset Management, one of the most well-regarded sector-specialist funds in Australia, and more than a dozen smaller positions by other institutional holders.

On each occasion, and as a matter of fairness to existing holders, the Company offered a Share Purchase Plan to existing shareholders, which ensured that they had the ability to purchase stock on the same terms as the participants in the placement.

3.6 Recruitment of an Experienced Executive Team

Biotech is perhaps among the most knowledge-intensive industries, and any biotech company is therefore only as strong as the personnel who lead it and propel it. The Board has focused over its tenure on building and retaining a first-class team.

Highly experienced executives appointed to management team

The appointment of Dr Garner as CEO in August 2023 is perhaps the most visible element of this. However, the Company has built an exceptionally strong team of executives, with Deborah Ambrosini joining in June 2024 as Chief Financial Officer<sup>19</sup> and Dr Cathryn Clary as Chief Medical Advisor<sup>20</sup>. These individuals are supported by a highly experienced operational team, several of whom have joined from CSL Limited, having previously worked with Dr Gittleson there.

It is not enough for a company simply to hire experienced employees – it must also appropriately manage and incentivise them. Under the oversight of the Remuneration Committee of the Board, the Company put in place a robust performance management system, starting in FY2024. All employees are allocated specific and challenging objectives for the fiscal year, and part of their compensation is made dependent on the achievement of these objectives. Such an approach is common in most successful companies but, to the knowledge of the Directors, had not previously been utilised by Percheron during its life as Antisense.

3.7 Expansion of the Board

The current Directors had recognised the value of enriching the Board and had, in the fourth quarter of CY2024, identified a potential additional Director of the Company. The candidate in question would have brought significant strategic, commercial, and capital markets experience to the Company, along with deep networks in Australia and the United States. The individual had already undergone vetting, and the Board had hoped that they may have been appointed in the first quarter of CY2025. As a result of the process initiated by Mr Koutchin and Mr Peters, that process has been put on hold. Should the current Directors remain in office, they will do everything possible to retain the very highly credentialed candidate that was previously identified.

3.8 Reduction in Operating Expenditure

Careful cost management has allowed more Company funds to be directed to R&D

The Board has focused on reducing the Company's cost base over recent years. Calculated on a cash basis, the Company spent significantly more on value-generating R&D, and substantially less on staff costs and general and administrative expense, in FY2024 than it did in FY2021, before the current Board's appointment:

	FY2021 (before current Board)	FY2024 (with current Board)
R&D	59.0%	65.7%
Staff Costs	18.0%	15.7%
G&A	22.9%	18.6%

\ R&D = Research and Development; G&A = General and Administrative*

By way of example, the Company has relocated its offices from the Toorak to a serviced office in the Melbourne CBD, resulting in approximately a 50% saving on occupancy cost. The Company has also terminated a number of consulting and contractor agreements.

3.9 Renegotiation of Agreement with Ionis Pharmaceuticals

Relationship with Ionis placed on more commercial footing

The original agreement with Ionis Pharmaceuticals was executed in 2001 and revised in 2009. It described a research collaboration but was not appropriate for a commercial product. In 2024, the new Board executed a revised agreement which provided greater clarity regarding the treatment of ATL1102 and ATL1103 and which substantially facilitated partnering discussions.

3.10 Engagement with Clinicians, Academia, and Patient Advocacy

Company profile has been greatly elevated with key stakeholders

By virtue of each having worked in the rare diseases field, each of the Directors are intimately aware that success in a disease such as Duchenne muscular dystrophy requires extensive engagement with the clinician community, and with patient advocacy.

Prior to the new Board taking office in 2021, the Company was largely unknown to these key stakeholders. During their tenure, the current Board and management have invested significant time in building relationships with advocacy groups such as Parent Project Muscular Dystrophy, Cure Duchenne, and the Muscular Dystrophy Association, as well as with their Australian peers. Despite the failure of the ATL1102 phase IIb study, these relationships remain potentially an asset of the Company and are, moreover, inextricably personal to the Directors who have built them

4. The Board's Strategy to Rebuild the Company

The Board began to outline the key elements of its plans for the Company in its letter to shareholders of 6 January 2025<sup>21</sup>. The key points are recapitulated and expanded upon here.

Trial failures are a common challenge faced by biotech companies

For context, it is important to reiterate that Percheron is not the first biotech company to face such a situation. For example, in the weeks following Percheron's ATL1102 readout, Neumora Therapeutics (NASDAQ: NMRA) announced a negative phase III result for their depression program, resulting in an 80% drop in share price, and Sangamo Therapeutics (NASDAQ: SGMO) saw a 50% decline in value after Pfizer terminated a partnership for a gene therapy in haemophilia. In 2023, Fibrogen (NASDAQ: FGEN), a company working primarily in DMD, announced negative results from two trials of their investigational product, pavelumab. The company's stock declined approximately 85% on release of the results. Fibrogen successfully pivoted to three oncology programs licensed in from Fortis Therapeutics, and has been slowly rebuilding shareholder value since then.

Sadly, failure is a common event in drug development. The companies that survive and flourish after a setback are those that have clear plans to move forward, and which have the experience and expertise to refocus themselves.

For Percheron, the Board's strategy consists for the time being in four pillars, which are being pursued in parallel.

1. Understand the ATL1102 Trial Results

The Company has already begun a detailed examination of the trial results, which will be informed by additional packages of data throughout January and early February.

An analysis of the phase IIb study is ongoing, and is expected to conclude by end of 1Q CY2025

The team is approaching these analyses in an algorithmic way: to understand first whether there were any issues with the investigational product itself, then to examine the execution of the study, and finally to consider scientific questions as to its activity in DMD patients. These analyses to be completed by the end of the first calendar quarter of 2025, and will be shared comprehensively with all stakeholders as they are completed.

Another question which the team will try to address is why the results of the randomised phase IIb trial differed from the earlier single-arm phase IIa study. Sometimes, subtle differences in the patient population help to explain this, but it is also sometimes the case that drugs simply perform less well in larger, randomised trials than they do in small, earlier-stage exploratory trials, and this is one of the primary reasons that regulatory agencies such as FDA typically demand randomised data at some stage in a drug's development.

Board will carefully review other opportunities in current pipeline

2. Identify Value in the Company's Existing Pipeline

The Company has frequently noted that DMD is not the only potential use for ATL1102, and data has been generated for the drug in diseases ranging from autoimmune epilepsy to asthma. To refocus around one of these other indications, the Board will need to satisfy itself that there is a high likelihood of success, and that the negative result on the DMD study does not prejudice the outcome in another indication. This will be a complex scientific evaluation, but an important one, because the Company needs to ensure that it neither abandons a valuable program prematurely, nor falls into the trap of 'sending good money after bad'.

3. Diversify the Portfolio

Percheron will likely need to bring in one or more new assets to the pipeline

During its ongoing strategic review of the Company, the Board had already concluded that Percheron would need to acquire one or more new assets to achieve a sustainable pipeline and had initiated activities to meet this objective in 2024. Regardless of the conclusions that emerge from an analysis of the trial and the current pipeline, the Board continues to consider diversification to be imperative. The implicit risk associated with the existing assets would make the Company a challenging investment proposition in the medium term if those were the only programs in development. To be able to appeal to the broadest possible range of investors, the Company will need to show that is not dependent on a single technology platform, or on a single family of drug candidates.

Each of the current Directors has significant experience in 'external innovation' and the task of identifying potential assets around which to invest and rebuild the Company's pipeline intensified in December 2024. In January 2025, Dr Garner attended the JP Morgan Healthcare Conference and met with more than fifty potential partners to discuss their programs. Many of these discussions are now being followed up, with a number of potential licensors already under confidentiality.

The Board's objective is to have the Company's pipeline, as it means to go forward, substantially defined by 30 June 2025. The Company is greatly advantaged in these discussions by virtue of the fact that it has a highly experienced operational capability in place and ready to move quickly onto a new program. Ordinarily, the task of building such infrastructure would add significant time and risk to such negotiations.

4. Conserve Cost

Alongside these efforts, the Company has already taken dramatic steps to conserve its cash, so that the funds on hand can be substantially applied to new projects that may generate shareholder value. The team has been downsized, a number of contracts and business relationships have been terminated or paused, and every possible effort has been made to terminate the study at minimal residual cost.

The Company expects to incur some costs in closing out the study. The remaining funds will be applied to the identification and pursuit of new opportunities for the Company, which may be drawn from the existing pipeline or from external sources, to value-generating inflection points.

Key Milestones

1Q CY2025	Completion of all work on ATL1102 and final analysis of trial results
1Q CY2025	Strategic evaluation of Percheron’s existing pipeline
2Q CY2025	Launch of the Company’s revised pipeline for progression to further development

Impact of the General Meeting Requisition on the Board’s Strategy

The Company continues to make all possible efforts to pursue its strategy, as laid down in its Letter to Shareholders of 6 January 2025, and as expanded upon here.

However, the distraction associated with the requisition for a General Meeting by Mr Kenley, Mr Koutchin, Mr Moses, Mr Peters, and Mr Reed cannot be overstated. At a time when the Board should be spending every possible moment working to restore investor confidence, it finds itself instead in a position where the very leadership of the Company is uncertain. Moreover, the requisitioning shareholders have put the Board on notice that it may consider itself to be acting in ‘caretaker mode’ for the duration of this process. As such, key partnering opportunities around future pipeline assets cannot be implemented until the General Meeting is resolved.

5. Biographies of the Directors

The Directors here present their biographies and credentials for the consideration of shareholders, who may also wish to refer to the Company's Annual Report, which describes, among other matters, their attendance at Board meetings, and other points of note.

Dr Price to resign if the motions of Mr Koutchin and Mr Peters are successful

Dr Gil Price has indicated that he would resign from the Board if Dr Gittleson and Dr Garner were removed. As such, he is implicitly part of the choice that shareholders must make: between a Board comprised of three veteran drug development executives, or a Board comprised of two individuals with no first-hand experience in drug development. For that reason, Dr Price's biography and credentials are presented here in the same way as those of Dr Gittleson and Dr Garner.

The Directors offer the following general observations:

1. Each of the Directors has decades of experience in the drug development industry, gleaned from senior executive roles in successful multinational corporations.
2. Each of the Directors is a qualified physician, extensively experienced in dealing with clinicians and regulatory agencies.
3. Each of the Directors has strong commercial experience, having been integrally involved in the commercial launch, partnering, and financing of numerous drug development programs.
4. Each of the Directors is an experienced public company director, having served, in aggregate, on the Boards of more than half a dozen public companies in Australia and the United States.
5. Consequently, each of the Directors brings to the Company an extensive network of business and investor relationships which they have applied during their tenure to the benefit of the Company and will continue to do so for as long as they remain Directors.

In 2006, she joined CSL Limited and commenced a fourteen-year engagement with that company, which saw her rise to the position of Global Chief Medical Officer. A significant part of her experience with CSL was in the United States, where she was instrumental in driving the company's entry to that critical market, and where she gained extensive experience working with US clinicians and with the US Food & Drug Administration.

Dr Gittleson has led international clinical trials for registration and has been critical to multiple new product approvals. She is highly experienced in working with regulatory agencies such as FDA to ensure alignment between the regulatory and commercial needs for a new pharmaceutical product.

Dr Gittleson is an experienced public company director. In addition to her role on the Percheron Board, she is also Chair of the Board at Patrys Limited (ASX: PAB) and is a non-executive director of George Health.

6. Response to the Statement by Mr Koutchin and Mr Peters

The Directors have reviewed the statement provided by the requisitioning shareholders and wish to offer the following comments.

Mr Koutchin and Mr Peters are not Suitable Directors for a Publicly Listed Biotechnology Company

Neither Mr Koutchin nor Mr Peters have any experience or expertise in drug development

Mr Koutchin is a former stockbroker, who now runs a small corporate advisory business. According to his own statement, Mr Koutchin's professional experience is entirely in capital raising and corporate finance. Mr Koutchin has no experience at all in drug development, which is the primary business of the Company.

Mr Koutchin's statement moreover does not mention that he served as a contractor to the Company from at least August 2015 to December 2023. His relationship with the Company during and after this period is described elsewhere in this document. For the moment though, it is important to note that, in almost a decade during which Mr Koutchin worked for the Company as a contractor, none of the Directors, executives, or shareholders was minded to install him to the Company's Board. If the people who worked so closely with Mr Koutchin for so many years did not see him to be an appropriate director of the Company, it is not clear why shareholders should now take a different view.

Mr Peters' statement speaks to his successful career in beach mats and camping equipment. There are however some differences between such products and the development of novel pharmaceutical products for life-threatening diseases. It may be naïve to assume that Mr Peters' experience is readily translatable to the Company's highly specialised business.

Neither Mr Koutchin nor Mr Peters have previously served as a director of a public company

Neither Mr Koutchin nor Mr Peters have ever served as directors of a listed public company. This is a complex company, which will face difficult decisions over the course of 2025, and shareholders deserve to have experienced hands at the helm.

The Statement by Mr Koutchin and Mr Peters Provides Inadequate Detail as to Their Plans for the Company

The statement by Mr Koutchin and Mr Peters is almost entirely negative – it consists largely of a series of vague criticisms of the Company's Board – but it presents no positive agenda for how they would act differently were they to become Directors of the Company. Moreover, we believe much of their criticism to be wrong, and based on a misunderstanding of the industry in which the Company operates.

“At the most recent Annual [sic] General Meeting (AGM), shareholders issued a ‘strike’ against the remuneration report.”

Mr Koutchin's role in procuring this outcome is described elsewhere in this document. It should however be understood in its full context. Research by The Reward Practice, a consultancy, shows that 15% of ASX300 companies received a 'strike' on their remuneration report in FY2024. With the Percheron AGM opening to voting on the same day that a strategically complex capital raise was announced to the market, it was perhaps inevitable that the Remuneration Report would serve as a lightning rod for shareholder disquiet.

"...the Company elected to withdraw two other resolutions: one involved substantial amendments to the Constitution, which were unnecessary and potentially detrimental to checks and balances of the Board..."

Proposed update to Company Constitution was not, as Mr Koutchin claimed, a conspiracy

The Company's Constitution was last updated in 2016 and had become increasingly non-compliant and inconsistent with contemporary practice. With the assistance of the Company's legal counsel, Minter Ellison, the Board proposed a routine refresh to the Constitution, which was drafted by Minter Ellison lawyers and based entirely on common practice among similar companies.

The revisions provide no additional powers of any great substance to the Directors. In particular, the Constitution did not provide a mechanism for Directors to award themselves options, as claimed by Mr Koutchin. Any equity issuance to Directors requires specific shareholder approval, and there is no mechanism for the Constitution to override that. Mr Koutchin's claims were systematically rebutted in the AGM by one of the Minter Ellison legal team.

"...the other pertained to granting the company additional placement capacity, reflecting shareholders' hesitancy to trust the current Board's intentions for future use of that capacity."

ASX Listing Rule 7.1A allows smaller companies to annually seek their shareholders' approval to increase the Company's discretionary placement capacity from 15% to 25%. Percheron has had similar resolutions approved by shareholders in at least each of the preceding five AGMs, and the resolution is almost ubiquitous among ASX-listed biotech companies.

Having the capacity does not mean that the Company intends to use it. Indeed, the capital raise in October 2024 did not utilise the Listing Rule 7.1A capacity that was approved at the 2023 AGM. However, the capacity does provide the Company with flexibility, should it need to raise capital, and allows for a broader range of structural approaches. Not having the capacity available does not mean that a Company will not raise money. It simply means that any Company doing so will have a narrower range of structures through which to finance itself and will therefore likely be more at the mercy of its investors.

"We believe [...] Percheron Therapeutics requires a refreshed board..."

Mr Koutchin's and Mr Peters' association with the Company long predates the current directors and they do not represent 'a refreshed board'

Mr Koutchin has been a contractor to the Company for much of the past decade. Mr Peters has been a shareholder of the Company almost since its IPO in 2001. Neither individual represents the refreshed board that is claimed in their document. On the contrary, Mr Koutchin and Mr Peters represent the Company's 'Old Guard', and their proposed appointment would serve to regress the Company to an earlier stage in its history. Both individuals long predate the current Directors, whose appointments in 2021 and 2023 did in fact provide the refreshed Board that Mr Koutchin and Mr Peters describe.

“It is crucial to adopt an appropriate and clearly articulated plan to build shareholder value and restore confidence in the Company.”

This is perhaps the most accurate sentence in the statement by the requisitioning shareholders. However, nowhere in the remainder of their statement do they describe what their plan would be. Who would run the Company? What would be the nature of its business? What milestones should investors look forward to? How would Mr Koutchin and Mr Peters manage risk, especially in a scenario where any further development of ATL1102 is to be attempted? The current Board has outlined their views on such matters in detail, in this document and elsewhere, but shareholders are asked to ‘vote blind’ on Mr Koutchin and Mr Peters.

“...ensuring that shareholder [...] interests are at the forefront of the Board’s decision-making process moving forward.”

Shareholders may note the substantial shareholder notice lodged with ASX on 7 January 2025 by Mr Kenley, Mr Koutchin, Mr Moses, Mr Peters, Mr Reed, and their related parties, which states that the requisitioning shareholders are considered associates of one another and are ‘acting in concert.’

Among the requisitioning shareholders are Mr Robert Moses, currently Chair of the Board at Cartherics, and Mr David Kenley, CEO of Lateral Pharma, both privately held biotech companies in Australia. Shareholders are entitled to query whether the requisitioning shareholders, acting in concert, have any intentions in relation to these companies and, if so, how Mr Koutchin and Mr Peters would propose to safeguard the interests of Percheron shareholders.

The Election of Mr Koutchin and Mr Peters Would Have Immediate and Negative Consequences for the Company and its Shareholders

Some key considerations are described below.

The Board Would Be Non-Compliant With ASX Listing Rules and the Company Would be Subject to Immediate Suspension

Mr Koutchin and Mr Peters would not be sufficient to form a board under Australian law; a third director would be required

As noted elsewhere, Dr Gil Price has stated that he would resign from the Board in the event that Mr Koutchin and Mr Peters were successful in removing Dr Gittleson and Dr Garner. If so, that would leave the Company with only two Directors. The Australian Securities & Investments Commission (ASIC) requires that public companies have a minimum of three directors.

Mr Koutchin and Mr Peters would need to immediately recruit an additional director to form a sufficient Board. Shareholders deserve to know who the additional Director would be, and to understand their credentials and intent.

Recruitment of a new CEO would likely be expensive and time-consuming; Mr Koutchin or Mr Peters would need to assume an interim executive role

The Company Would Need to Recruit a New Chief Executive Officer

By virtue of the interplay between the Company's Constitution and Dr Garner's employment contract, Dr Garner's employment as Chief Executive Officer would terminate immediately upon his dismissal from the Board.

This would incur material cost to the Company, as it would be required to fulfil its statutory obligations towards Dr Garner, including payment in lieu of six months' notice and other such legally mandated requirements on severance.

Mr Koutchin and Mr Peters would then need to find a new CEO. If they have a candidate in mind, they should be transparent with shareholders as to who will run the Company. If they do not, shareholders should recognise that a retained executive search for a CEO can often take in excess of six months, and typically costs an amount in the hundreds of thousands of dollars in search fees.

It is debatable whether a candidate of high quality would be enthusiastic to join a company with an uncertain pipeline, and a Board composed entirely of first time ASX directors.

In the meantime, either Mr Koutchin or Mr Peters would need to assume executive responsibilities, given that Dr Garner's contract would be immediately terminated by the motion they have put forward. It is appropriate for shareholders to ask which of them would serve as an interim CEO for the period of perhaps six months or more during which a retained search was ongoing.

The Company Would Need to Engage Additional Employees or Advisors to Cover the Capabilities Currently Provided by Dr Gittleston, Dr Price, and Dr Garner

The three Directors are highly experienced drug development professionals with decades of experience. In their absence, the Company would need to engage additional support in areas such as regulatory affairs, clinical trial design, patient safety, and commercial strategy. Such expertise does not come cheap, nor is it easy to source. The likely consequence would be a sustained period of relative paralysis while the Company seeks out the skills that it requires, followed by a substantial increase in its ongoing cost base.

The Company May Become More Vulnerable to Hostile Takeover or to Predatory Investors

Percheron is currently perceived as a listed shell – investors implicitly place little to no value on the legacy Antisense pipeline.

It is common, when companies find themselves under such circumstances, that other parties attempt to gain control of the Company to access its cash reserves. In addition, venture investors can sometimes attempt to use reverse takeovers into publicly listed companies to provide exit liquidity for their less promising investments. Either scenario would likely be quite detrimental to the interests of Percheron shareholders.

The current Board is alert to these risks, having seen similar challenges occur in other contexts, and is determined to protect the interests of Percheron shareholders to the fullest extent possible. Mr Koutchin and Mr Peters, however, may be less well-placed to judge the merits and risks of such overtures. Moreover, as noted previously, they appear to have no clear strategy for the Company, and no prior experience with in-licensing pharmaceutical assets. Consequently, and perhaps for want of any other options, the risk is high that they may commit the Company to a path in which its remaining value is substantially destroyed by predatory actors.

7. Mr Koutchin's Prior Relationship with the Company and its Board

After careful consideration, the Board is of the view that shareholders should be given the opportunity to understand Mr Koutchin's actions in the context of a longstanding and, in recent years, antagonistic relationship with the Company.

Engagement as a Contractor

In or around August 2015, Antisense Therapeutics Limited, as Percheron was then known, engaged Mr Koutchin, via his corporate entity, XEC Partners Pty Ltd, for corporate advisory and capital raising services.

Over the eight-year duration of this engagement, XEC Partners received in excess of $1.3 million in fees from the Company. Over the same period, the Company's share price fell by approximately 25%.

Following the appointment of Dr Garner as CEO in August 2023, the Company terminated this engagement with effect from 31 December 2023, which was the earliest opportunity permitted by contract.

Dispute in Relation to 2023 Capital Raise

In July 2023, the Company conducted an equity placement, which was followed in August 2023 by a Share Purchase Plan to eligible shareholders. The equity placement was exclusively managed by Morgans Corporate Limited.

There was a subsequent dispute between Mr Koutchin and the Company about amounts payable to XEC Partners in connection with the 2023 capital raise, which was settled out of court on confidential terms.

As part of that settlement, and in accordance with common practice in such situations, the Company and Mr Koutchin entered into non-disparagement commitments in respect of each other.

Dispute in Relation to 2024 Capital Raise

In October 2024, the Company raised $13 million in new equity capital via a placement to sophisticated and institutional investors. The intended use of proceeds was to fund the remainder of the ongoing phase IIb clinical trial of ATL1102 in DMD. However, the Board recognised a secondary objective, which was to bring new institutional investors onto the register.

The transaction was over-subscribed and almost all applicants were markedly scaled back. Mr Koutchin was one of a number of investors whose application was declined. In Mr Koutchin's case, being neither a new investor nor an institutional investor, his application was declined, although he retained, like any shareholder, the ability to subscribe via the accompanying Share Purchase Plan or to purchase additional shares on market, neither of which occurred.

Mr Koutchin was a contractor to the Company, via his entity XEC Partners, from 2015 until 2023

The Company ordinarily observes a policy of not discussing its shareholders in public, except to the extent that it is obliged to by law. However, these are matters of public knowledge, since Mr Koutchin took to the floor at the 2024 AGM to state his grievances at some length.

Disinformation Campaign in Relation to 2024 AGM

Prior to the AGM, Mr Koutchin requested on several occasions to inspect the Company's register of shareholders in person. The Company acceded to these requests, as it is obliged to do by law.

Despite the non-disparagement commitments which he had made in the September 2024 settlement, Mr Koutchin contacted a number of shareholders to solicit negative votes in the AGM.

As part of these discussions, he attacked the revised Company Constitution, an otherwise innocuous and routine administrative resolution, and the Listing Rule 7.1A placement capacity. Of note, each of these resolutions required 75% of the shareholder vote to pass. As noted in the statement by Mr Koutchin and Mr Peters, the two targeted resolutions were withdrawn after adverse proxy voting ahead of the AGM, and the Remuneration Report received a 'first strike'.

Summary

Mr Koutchin's requisition of this General Meeting, and his bid to become a Director of the Company, occurs against the backdrop of an ongoing antagonism between him and the Company. Mr Koutchin has been in legal dispute with the Company for much of the previous year. He has also made repeated efforts to undermine the Company's Board. Shareholders should accordingly consider these matters when deciding how to approach Mr Koutchin's candidacy as a Director.

8. Concluding Remarks

Shareholders have a clear choice to make. It is no exaggeration to say that the survival of the Company may depend on making the right choice at this General Meeting.

On the one hand, a team of three highly experienced drug development professionals who have a clear plan to recover the Company from the unfortunate outcome of the ATL1102 DMD clinical trial. Each have joined the Company over the last several years, representing a clear change from the longstanding prior Board and Management. They have begun to transform the Company, driven by a deep understanding of the industry and a passion to make the enterprise successful, and they seek your support to continue doing so.

On the other, two individuals with no experience in running life sciences companies, and no experience as directors of a publicly listed company. The requisitioning shareholders have not provided any clear prescription for the Company's future. And shareholders are left in the dark on key points, such as who else would be on their Board, who would run the Company in an executive capacity, and how they would confront the difficult decisions that lie ahead for Percheron in coming months. Moreover, Mr Koutchin's reasons for proposing himself as a Director remain insufficiently clear.

In biotech, drugs often fail, but companies don't need to fail with them. The Board respectfully urges you to vote AGAINST all resolutions at this General Meeting, and to focus instead on what Percheron may yet become with the proper leadership.

ANNEXURE A – STATEMENT FROM REQUISITIONING SHAREHOLDERS

Request to Distribute Statement to Members Percheron Therapeutics Limited

We are each shareholders and long-term supporters of the company who have identified shared and similar concerns with the operation and performance of the Company. We believe these concerns will resonate with, and be shared by, other shareholders. Over the past year, there have been several concerns expressed by some or all of us and shared with the Company regarding the Company's management, capital management, and market performance. At the most recent Annual General Meeting (AGM), shareholders issued a 'strike' against the remuneration report. Additionally, the Company elected to withdraw two other resolutions: one involved substantial amendments to the Constitution, which were unnecessary and potentially detrimental to checks and balances of the Board, as well as shareholders' interests; the other pertained to granting the company additional placement capacity, reflecting shareholders' hesitancy to trust the current Board's intentions for future use of that capacity. In our view, the recent AGM results are reflective of a loss of trust and growing concern with the directors' actions and decision making, particularly following the heavily discounted October 2024 share placement and the events leading up to the recent release of the topline results from the Phase IIb study of Avicursen.

We believe that following the release of the Phase IIb data, and the resultant 90% loss in shareholder value, Percheron Therapeutics requires a refreshed board with the relevant business and capital markets skills, experience, and long-term knowledge of the company to move forward effectively. It is crucial to adopt an appropriate and clearly articulated plan to build shareholder value and restore confidence in the company.

We seek your support in removing Dr Charmane Gittleson and Dr James Garner from the Board of Directors to facilitate the Board changes which we consider are necessary for the future success of Percheron Therapeutics.

We propose to appoint two new directors to the board: Mr Greg Peters and Mr Gennadi Koutchin. These proposed directors have a long-term history of support for the company, having also accumulated sizable shareholdings over many years. Collectively, they possess skills and experience to guide the company moving forward. Their backgrounds and commitment to Percheron Therapeutics (outlined below) make them well-suited to help steer the company, ensuring that shareholder views are respected and their interests are at the forefront of the Board's decision-making process moving forward.

Our discussions with biotech industry veterans who know the Company well and other long-term shareholders have given us confidence that our frustrations are shared widely among the shareholder base of the Company. Our top priority is to enhance the Board and management team by identifying and appointing seasoned biotech executives who can advance the Company's objectives while using our appointment as the impetus to conduct a review of the Company's position and forward strategy including a review of the recent Phase IIb data to determine the best pathway forward for Avicursen.
