

News Release

27 January 2016

AMCOR ANNOUNCES ACQUISITION OF BPI CHINA

---

Amcor announces today, an agreement to acquire BPI China, the Chinese subsidiary of UK based British Polythene Industries PLC for US$13 million.

BPI China has one plant located in Xinhui, South China, with state-of-the-art blown film and flexographic printing lines. The business produces flexible packaging products for export and domestic customers.

Amcor currently has a total of ten flexible packaging plants in China, including four plants in Southern China. This acquisition will strengthen Amcor's leadership position in Southern China and complement the existing business by providing additional scale and talent. It will also broaden Amcor's capabilities in China to include flexographic printing and reduce future capital expenditure requirements.

Amcor's Managing Director and CEO, Ron Delia said, "China continues to be an attractive market for flexible packaging globally and this is an excellent opportunity to support our continued expansion in the important Southern region."

ENDS

For further information please contact:

Tracey Whitehead

Acting Executive GM Corporate Affairs

Amcor Limited

Ph: +61 3 9226 9028