

RedHill Education Limited

Quality Education Differentiation and Government Funding

RedHill Education Limited (RedHill) today commented on its:

- differentiated position as a quality private tertiary education provider
- very low level of government student funding

QUALITY DIFFERENTIATION

RedHill has positioned itself as a high quality private tertiary education provider.

It differentiates itself by:

- operating from purpose-built premium campuses in central CBD locations
- providing high quality campus facilities
- offering courses in specialised professional curriculum areas where there is growing industry demand for graduates
- controlling its own course development and accreditations
- providing students an engaging face-to-face learning experience, supported by highly qualified teachers
- actively working with industry participants to continually improve and enhance its curriculum
- not delivering any qualifications under auspice or licence agreements with any public universities, TAFEs or other education providers
- assisting students to achieve appropriate job outcomes through its networks of engaged employers
- providing continual personal engagement and support for its international students

GOVERNMENT FUNDING

RedHill and its students receive no form of funding from any Australian State or Territory Government.

RedHill's domestic students undertaking:

- Higher Education Bachelor Degree courses may access student loans via FEE HELP from the Australian Government
- VET Diploma-level courses may access student loans via VET-FEE HELP from the Australian Government

FEE HELP and VET-FEE HELP student tuition loans are RedHill's only exposure to any form of government funding, and they represent less than 15% of RedHill's revenues.

RedHill encourages students to seriously consider whether taking tuition loans is aligned to their personal career planning.
