OPENING OF 395 EXPRESS LANES PROJECT IN GREATER WASHINGTON AREA

Transurban announces that it expects to commence tolling on the 395 Express Lanes on 17 November 2019. The eight-mile (13-kilometre) extension of the 95 Express Lanes to the Washington DC border will open on schedule and on budget.

The project included improvements to transit and commuter access at the Pentagon that opened to customers in June 2019. The 395 Express Lanes expands Transurban's longstanding partnership with the Virginia government to deliver and operate a 53-mile (85-kilometre) network of dynamically tolled lanes.

Transurban CEO Scott Charlton said the completion of the 395 Express Lanes project was a significant development in Transurban's network of managed lanes in the Greater Washington Area.

"The 395 Express Lanes will reduce congestion in this critical economic corridor and provide customers with faster and more reliable travel options," he said.
