REVIEW OF OPERATIONS

Koonenberry Project

The Koonenberry Project is an emerging, district-scale copper, gold, nickel and base metals exploration package located 80km east of Broken Hill, New South Wales, Figure 1. The project comprises 3,300km² of contiguous tenure hosted entirely within rocks of the Delamerian Orogen, a sequence of Proterozoic to Devonian aged sediments, volcanics and intrusives which have undergone multiple mineralising, deformation, remobilisation and enrichment events. The Company considers the Koonenberry Belt to be highly prospective for several mineralisation styles due to the unique depositional environment and tectonic history of the Delamerian Orogen.

These different mineralisation styles include the deposition of Volcanogenic Massive Sulphide (VMS) Cu-Zn-Pg-Ag deposits and mafic-ultramafic hosted Ni-Cu-Co-PGE deposits in the older Cambrian to Proterozoic rock sequences, as well as the formation of epithermal Cu-Ag-Pb deposits in the extensional tectonics along the Koonenberry Fault in the Silurian-Devonian period. At least four different deformation events over the history of the belt have been responsible for not only the remobilisation of existing mineralisation but also the introduction of Cu & Au mineralising fluids along deep-seated structures, such as the Koonenberry Fault which bounds the eastern margin of the Koonenberry Project. The key tectonic and depositional events within the Koonenberry Project are summarised in Figure 2.

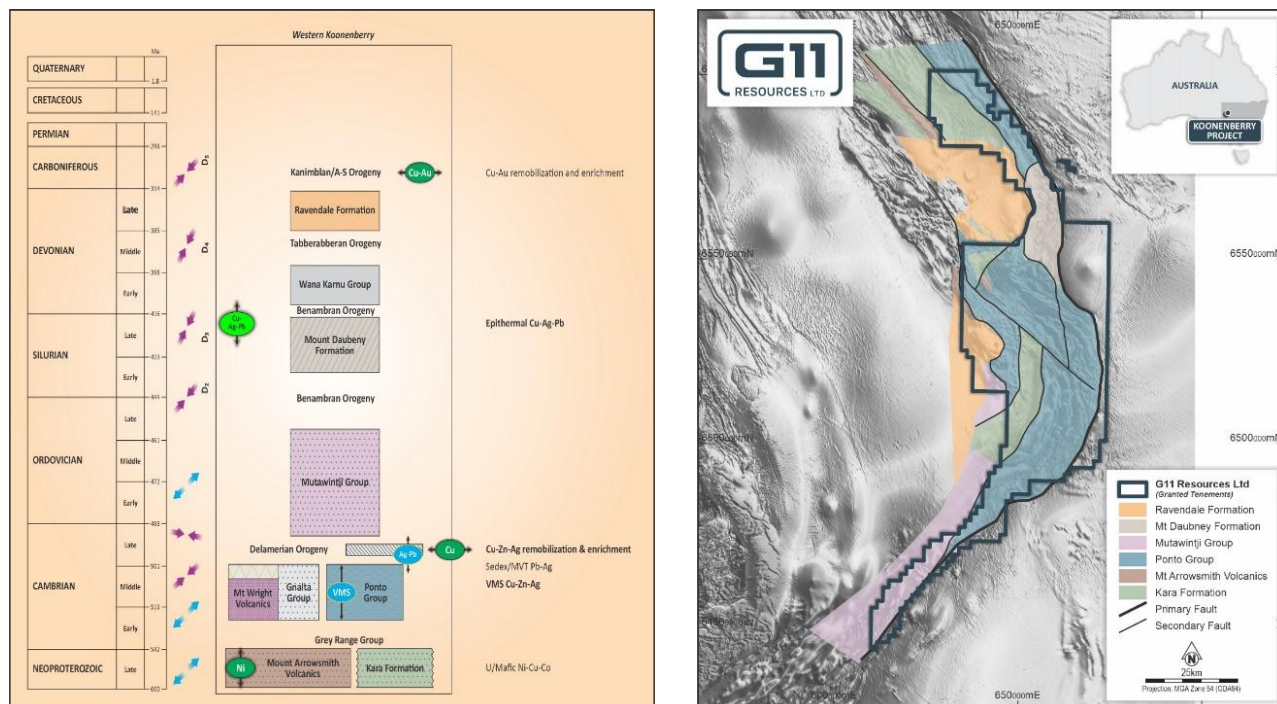

Figure 2 – Key tectonic and depositional events within the Koonenberry Project and the location of these formations within the Belt

The Koonenberry Project comprises four distinct corridors, located either adjacent to the crustal-scale Koonenberry Fault or in the highly prospective “knee zone” where the Koonenberry Fault bends from NE-striking to NNW striking. These corridors include the Wilandra Copper Corridor, Cymbric Corridor, Wertago Corridor and Bilpa Corridor, Figure 3.

Wilandra Copper Corridor

The Wilandra Copper Corridor is adjacent to the Koonenberry Fault and forms a 75km long belt with outcropping Cu-Zn mineralisation prospective for both syngenetic VMS and epigenetic Cu-rich base metal mineralisation. The Cambrian Ponto Group sediments and volcanics dominate the corridor, with only a very small section of this stratigraphy tested to date for Cu-rich, VMS derived base metal mineralisation.

The Company focussed much of the exploration efforts during the reporting period on the Wilandra Copper Corridor, including a Reverse Circulation/Diamond Drilling (RCDD) drill program including additional downhole electromagnetic surveys (DHEM) and a surface moving loop electromagnetic survey (MLEM).

The key focus area during the reporting period has been the Peveril-Grasmere Trend, a 4.0km long zone of semi-continuous outcropping mineralised gossans and siliceous rocks (Figure 4). Work completed included an aggressive seven-hole step out exploration drill program for 3,396.4m with associated DHEM surveys to test the scale of the Cu-rich massive sulphide mineralisation at depth and a MLEM survey covering the immediate NW strike extension of the Peveril-Grasmere Trend.

The first phase of the drilling program targeted the Peveril zone at depth with the drilling of three widely spaced deep drillholes. GR24RCD002 intersected a 14m wide zone (downhole width) of sulphide mineralisation at 600m depth below surface, representing the deepest intercept of VMS style mineralisation at Wilandra to date. DHEM surveys completed on the three drillholes identified both on-hole and numerous off-hole EM conductors. These EM plates cover over 1,000m of strike length and 500m of dip extent at Peveril.

Follow-up drill testing of these off-hole EM conductors in holes GR24RCD006 and GR24RCD007 returned significant copper and elevated gold grades over encouraging widths from a VMS system including:

- 9.3m at 1.42% Cu, 0.98% Zn, 0.11 g/t Au and 3.79 g/t Ag from 341.2m (GR24RCD006) including
 - 5.9m at 2.13% Cu, 1.50% Zn, 0.16 g/t Au and 5.64 g/t Ag from 341.2m
- 8.3m at 1.03% Cu, 0.61% Zn, 0.07 g/t Au and 3.60 g/t Ag from 327.9m (GR24RCD007) including
 - 3.4m at 2.19% Cu, 1.32% Zn, 0.14 g/t Au and 7.15 g/t Ag from 327.9m

GR24RCD006 also intersected what appears to be a fault-controlled zone of massive sulphide mineralisation just before the VMS intercept, which returned 1.0m @ 4.67% Cu, 1.96% Zn, 0.21 g/t Au and 10.6 g/t Ag from 327.8m. This intercept is located approximately 14m up-hole of the main VMS mineralised intercept.

This VMS mineralisation at Peveril is located along strike from the structurally controlled high-grade plunging Cu-rich massive sulphide mineralisation intersected previously, defining a potentially continuous zone of mineralisation more than 1km long (Figure 5). Subsequent downhole electromagnetic (DHEM) surveys returned in and off-hole conductance responses indicating potential continuity between the two zones.

The consistency of the in- and off-hole EM responses with the width and grade of the mineralisation intersected provides confidence that this style of Cu-rich mineralisation provides a distinct EM response in not only downhole but also surface and airborne geophysical surveys. It is considered likely that a stronger EM response will be received from Cu-rich massive sulphides that are either thicker or higher grade.

To test for EM conductive responses, G11 completed a Moving Loop Electromagnetic (MLEM) survey over an area immediately along strike of the Peveril – Grasmere system. Although anomalous EM responses were returned from this survey, no bedrock sources could be effectively modelled due to the presence of highly conductive overburden. Geochemical sampling will be required to follow up some of these anomalies to determine if they are bedrock derived from massive sulphide mineralisation prior to drill testing.

Further MLEM surveys are being planned along strike of Grasmere to the SE as well as testing parallel stratigraphy.

Cymbric Vale Corridor

Given the significant exploration success at Wilandra, the Company has decided to delay drilling activities at Black Hills and Cymbric Vale to remain focused on its continued exploration efforts at Wilandra.

TO THE MEMBERS OF G11 RESOURCES LIMITED

Based on our review, which is not an audit, we have not become aware of any matter that makes us believe that the accompanying half-year financial report of G11 Resources Limited is not in accordance with the Corporations Act 2001 including:

- (a) giving a true and fair view of the consolidated entity's financial position as at 31 December 2024 and of its performance for the half-year ended on that date; and
- (b) Complying with Accounting Standard AASB 134 Interim Financial Reporting and the Corporations Regulations 2001.

Basis for Conclusion

We conducted our review in accordance with ASRE 2410 Review of a Financial Report Performed by the Independent Auditor of the Entity. Our responsibilities are further described in the Auditor's Responsibilities for the Review of the Financial Report section of our report

Independence

We are independent of the company in accordance with the auditor independence requirements of the Corporations Act 2001 and the ethical requirements of the Accounting Professional and Ethical Standards Board's APES 110 Code of Ethics for Professional Accountants (including Independence Standards) (the Code) that are relevant to our audit of the annual financial report in Australia. We have also fulfilled our other ethical responsibilities in accordance with the Code.

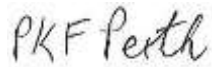

Directors' Responsibility for the Interim Financial Report

The directors of the company are responsible for the preparation of the half-year financial report that gives a true and fair view in accordance with the Australian Accounting Standards and the Corporations Act 2001 and for such internal controls as the directors determine is necessary to enable the preparation of the half-year financial report that gives a true and fair view and is free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

Auditor's Responsibilities for the Review of the Financial Report

Our responsibility is to express a conclusion on the half-year financial report based on our review. ASRE 2410 requires us to conclude whether we have become aware of any matter that makes us believe that the half-year financial report is not in accordance with the Corporations Act 2001 including: giving a true and fair view of the consolidated entity's financial position as at 31 December 2024 and its performance for the half year ended on that date; and complying with Accounting Standard AASB 134 Interim Financial Reporting and the Corporation Regulations 2001.

A review of a half-year financial report consists of making enquiries, primarily of persons responsible for financial and accounting matters, and applying analytical and other review procedures. A review is substantially less in scope than an audit conducted in accordance with Australian Auditing Standards and consequently does not enable us to obtain assurance that we would become aware of all significant matters that might be identified in an audit. Accordingly, we do not express an audit opinion.
