Portfolio update

The Trust continues to meet its investment objective by providing investors with monthly income by investing in a diversified pool of credit and fixed income assets. The Trust's investment portfolio returned 0.8% (Net of fees) in June. Supported by rising interest rates and robust performance over multiple horizons, the Trust was able to pay a June distribution of 0.97c per share, the largest in the Trust's history.

Global financial markets were mixed during June with equities continuing to rise and credit markets strengthening while bond yields sold off as investors digested hawkish central bank rhetoric. The Trust's floating rate structure mitigated the impact of sharply rising bond yields while the portfolio's running income continues to benefit from rising rates as floating rate coupons are adjusted upwards.

The Trust's running yield was the key contributing factor to performance during the month. Income was predominantly generated by coupon payments and interest income from the Trust's exposure to non-financial corporate bonds and Residential Mortgage-Backed Securities (RMBS) alongside banks and diversified financials. The impact of 400 bps of RBA rate increases over the past 13 months can be observed in the consistent increase in the running yield of the Trust's assets which was 7.6% at month end.

Credit spread performance was positive for performance during the month. Domestic floating rate credit outperformed traditional fixed interest throughout the month as yields rose while credit spreads tightened. Domestic spreads narrowed across most sectors while remaining in range of recent averages. The Trust's allocation to domestic and offshore banks were the main contributors to spread return. Financial spreads performed well, led by offshore banks. There were no notable detractors during the month. The Trust's US dollar and Euro denominated exposures performed well, continuing to recover from the heightened volatility observed during March. Note that while the Trust has a capacity to invest in foreign denominated bonds, exposures are fully hedged back to Australian Dollars.

Sector and risk allocations were actively adjusted during June. The Trust increased its allocation to domestic banks and diversified financials while also moving down the capital structure, selectively adding subordinated exposures. The Manager elected to take part in the record-breaking subordinated deal from Westpac which priced in mid-June. The Trust also invested in the new fixed rate issue from AGI finance which was offering attractive relative value and a healthy 6.1% coupon.

The outlook for credit remains marginally negative and the Manager continues to be selective in adding new issues. The Trust remains focused on identifying attractively priced issues from firms with market leading positions and strong balance sheets. The Trust maintains its defensive positioning, investing in a diverse set of quality issuers while retaining the capacity to take advantage of relative value opportunities as the outlook for credit continues to improve.

Investment objective

To provide investors with monthly income by investing in a diversified pool of credit and fixed income assets.

Target return

To target a total return of RBA Cash Rate plus 3.25% p.a. (net of fees) through the economic cycle. This is a target only and may not be achieved.

Investment strategy

The Perpetual Credit Income Trust invests in a diversified and actively managed portfolio of credit and fixed income assets.

0% - 30%	Assets denominated in foreign currencies (which are typically hedged back to AUD)
