Execution: With Inflection Point Reached

To date we have partnerships for five of our twelve porphyry projects and that have unlocked over $60 million of potential partner funding.

From a number of projects perspective we are less than half way delivering upon our strategy and we are now seeking partners for our more advanced and flagship projects, so we are at a significantly earlier stage from a potential value and partner funding perspective.

In terms of ramping up exploration on projects with existing partners this is just now occurring. After 12 months of no prior drilling, in 4Q'24 we saw four rigs active at three of our partner projects. Drill results are pending.

Further deals/partnerships, drilling results from current programs and new 2025 drill programs are all key milestones for investors to keep an eye out for.

We believe the foundations now in place provide an inflection point in terms of news flow and value catalysts, and, as we seek to achieve a self funding model with project management fees from operating further new partner funded projects covering our corporate costs.
