RESPONSE TO NEWS ARTICLE

Smiles Inclusive notes the article published in the Sydney Morning Herald today which relates primarily to the conduct of the previous owner of the Smiles Onsite business.

Smiles Inclusive's subsidiary company Totally Smiles applied for its radiation licence immediately after acquisition of the Smiles Onsite practice and worked collaboratively and openly with the regulatory authority from then until the licence was granted. This is standard practice following the acquisition of dental businesses, and the regulator has now granted the licence. Sieverts who are industry leaders in radiation equipment and licensing have advised Totally Smiles on all of its radiation licensing requirements nationally from prior to acquisition through to now.

Smiles is continuing to progress its claims against the former owner of the Smiles Onsite business.
