ASX/Media Release

Statement on the passing of Wayne Goss

The Board, management and employees of Ausenco express their sincere condolences to the family of Wayne Goss following his passing away this morning.

Mr Goss first became Ausenco's Chairman in 2002 and served in the role for 11 years until his resignation in 2013. During this time, he oversaw the significant growth of Ausenco, including its listing as a public company in 2006.

Ausenco CEO Zimi Meka said he was extremely saddened to hear the news of Mr Goss' passing.

"Wayne was a highly respected Chairman who made a significant and valued contribution to the business. His leadership, counsel and insights were particularly valued and appreciated by the Board and myself personally," Mr Meka said.

"Wayne will be missed by the entire Ausenco team. My thoughts and deepest sympathies are with his wife, Roisin, and their children Ryan and Caitlin during this time," Mr Meka said.
