Quickflix launches new low-priced streaming for only $9.99 per month.

Australian movie and TV streaming company Quickflix today announced the beginning of what it believes is a new-era in affordable home entertainment with the launch of its new subscription options including streaming of TV shows and movies for only $9.99 per month.

Quickflix's Australian customers can now enjoy unlimited streaming of selected TV shows including those from US premium network HBO and BBC as well as blockbuster movies from Hollywood and Kids TV in standard definition (SD) or high definition (HD) for one low monthly fee of $9.99 making it by far the most affordable service of its kind.

Under the $9.99 per month subscription, customers have the flexibility of streaming to up to six registered devices including a wide array of smart TVs, game consoles, Blu-ray players, mobiles, tablets, PCs and other devices making it also the most accessible service of its kind. Under the one subscription a family or household is eligible to stream up to three movies or TV shows concurrently. Streaming of premium latest release movies pay-per-view and current and recent seasons TV pay-per-episode or season pass is also available for an additional charge.

Quickflix has also announced a new entry-level subscription plan for its online DVD rental postal service of $12.99 per month for one DVD (includes Blu-ray) out-at-a-time with no limit on the number of times a DVD is exchanged in the month.

Quickflix Founder and CEO, Stephen Langsford, said: "We believe our new entry level streaming plan of $9.99 per month offers customers the best value proposition and provides unparalleled choice and convenience compared with Foxtel's $19.99 per month plan which only includes standard definition movies and is limited to PC, Mac and iPads.

"What customers want is streaming to their TV screen and their mobile devices. Our streaming service does both and is growing at pace with well over 7.5 million movies and TV shows streamed to date and the numbers of hours streamed on Quickflix growing by about 20 per cent per quarter.

"We're pricing our subscription streaming service at only $9.99 per month so customers won't even have to think twice about the price. We think all the great content we offer for the family at about half of what it costs to go to the cinema for a single ticket or half of Foxtel's Presto service is irresistible.

"Quickflix is about making watching movie and TV shows more enjoyable. Our online DVD rental service did away with video store late fees. Our streaming service has done away with the need for a set top box and committing to long-term contracts.

"We're also committed to continuing to expand our range of latest release movies and hit TV series from the major networks and studios and we'll be launching more great content over the weeks and months ahead."

Quickflix's online DVD rental service offers access to Australia's largest range of latest release and catalogue movies and TV shows, over 60,000 DVD and Blu-ray titles in total. The three new DVD and Blu-ray subscription plans of one, two or three discs out-at-a-time with unlimited exchanges and postage paid are priced at only $12.99, $22.99 and $29.99 per month respectively or combined with streaming for only $19.99, $29.99 and $39.99 per month respectively a saving of $2.99 per month.
