NuCoal Senior Management Team Boosted For Project Advancement

The Directors of NuCoal Resources NL (ASX: NCR) are pleased to announce the promotion of Mr Gary Cambourn to the role of General Manager – Operations to assist with the ongoing growth of the Company. In that role Gary will oversee all operational aspects of the NuCoal exploration tenements and ongoing development. Gary has worked in the role of Project Manager on the Doyles Creek Underground Mine and Training School project since June 2010 and prior to that held Senior positions with Xstrata Coal NSW where he was responsible for the development of Beltana and the South Blakefield underground mines.

The vacancy created by Gary's promotion will be filled by Mr Leigh Nicholls who assumes the role of Project Manager, Doyles Creek Underground Mine and Training School on 4th July 2011. Leigh is a Degree qualified Mining Engineer and holds a NSW Mine Managers Certificate of Competency. Since graduating from University, Leigh has held numerous operational roles within Xstrata Coal in NSW and Queensland working as a Shift Undermanager, Longwall Co-ordinator and Mine Manager.

NuCoal Managing Director Glen Lewis said "I have worked with Gary throughout the past 22 years and firmly believe he is an ideal person to lead the Operational Development of NuCoal's assets. With the assistance of Leigh as Project Manager for the Doyles Creek Underground Mine and Training School, I am confident that the project will develop into a world class operation with the added benefit of providing hands on experience for industry trainees".
