ASX & MEDIA RELEASE

CBD'S ECO-KINETICS SIGNS SIGNIFICANT CONTRACT WITH ERGON ENERGY

CBD Energy (ASX: CBD) subsidiary, eco-Kinetics, which designs and installs renewable energy equipment for domestic and commercial customers, has won a significant contract with Queensland electricity company, Ergon Energy.

This is the first major contract for eco-Kinetics' newly established wholesale division, which was launched in August 2009, and follows another significant contract from the successful tender of the $20 million Shepparton SGVS contact in December 2009.

The contract with Ergon is for two years and covers the supply of on and off grid photovoltaic systems for the generation of solar energy.

According to Mr Edwin Cywinski, managing director of eco-Kinetics, the Ergon contract and other sales were contributing to making the business a major supplier of solar equipment in Australia.

"It is pleasing for a Queensland business like ours to help make solar energy more widely used in the Sunshine state, especially in partnership with the state's main utility," Mr Cywinski said.

CBD managing director, Mr Gerry McGowan, said the eco-Kinetics business was performing well and was benefiting from other wholesale opportunities being introduced from throughout the CBD group.

The two new contracts provide a solid platform for the profitability of the eco-Kinetics business over the next two years.
