Northern Territory Environmental Protection Authority approves Mining Management Plan assessment process for the Wonarah Improved Hard Process Project

10 June 2013

Minemakers Limited (ASX/TSX:MAK) (“Minemakers” or “Company”) is pleased to advise that the Northern Territory Environmental Protection Authority (“NT EPA”) has approved a Mining Management Plan assessment process for the Wonarah Improved Hard Process (“IHP”) Project. This approval is in response to the Notice of Intent for the Wonarah Project submitted on 20 December 2012 under the NT Environmental Assessment Act (“EA Act”) and is accessible on Minemakers’ website: www.minemakers.com.au.

In view of the intention to address outstanding environmental issues under the Mining Management Plan assessment process, the NT EPA has concluded that the IHP Project does not require further assessment under the EA Act.

Minemakers previously prepared and processed an Environmental Impact Statement for a direct shipping ore project and the terms of approval under that process which remain applicable to the IHP Project continue to apply.

Minemakers’ Managing Director, Cliff Lawrenson commented “We are very pleased with this approval from the NT EPA as it is an important positive step in the development of the Wonarah IHP Project and removes the need for the preparation and processing of an additional Environmental Impact Statement and its associated time and cost. The Mining Management Plan assessment process by no means diminishes Minemakers’ responsibility to adhere to all the terms of approval and recommendations arising out of this process and we will develop our Mining Management Plan with diligence and respect. We salute the NT EPA for their practical and decisive approach in this matter”.
