ETSA Utilities to change name to SA Power Networks effective from 3 September 2012

ETSA Utilities will formally change its name to SA Power Networks — effective from Monday 3 September 2012.

The change is aimed at clarifying the company's role as South Australia's electricity distributor and as a major SA-focused company employing about 2,000 South Australians, including 180 apprentices, across the State.

While the name is changing, key contact telephone numbers will remain the same, including the 13 13 66 faults and emergencies number.

More information will be provided directly to customers and other stakeholders closer to the changeover.
