

SAI extends Product Certification capability

SAI Global Limited (ASX: SAI) announced today that it has enhanced its product certification business through the acquisition of Enertech Australia Pty Ltd. Enertech undertakes product performance testing in the areas of gas and electrical appliances, and compliments SAI's existing product certification operations.

Enertech's technical expertise is recognised by Australian and international stakeholders, including government regulators and manufacturing organisations. Enertech is accredited by the National Association of Testing Authorities (NATA) accreditation number 12065.

According to Mr Tony Scotton, CEO of SAI Global Limited: "We have been looking for opportunities to extend and enhance our product certification business. SAI Global is already a leading provider of certification services in the consumer appliances market and by extending our current services into product testing our clients will benefit from having their consumer appliances certified faster. I welcome the Enertech team to SAI Global."

Mr Paul Orlowski, Director of Enertech Australia Pty Ltd said: "As a founder of Enertech, we have developed a culture and track record of strong customer service and technical excellence. We see our union with SAI Global as building on this strength."

Together, SAI Global and Enertech represent the largest single pool of technical expertise in consumer appliances within Australia and New Zealand. With a combined involvement in over 65 Standards writing committees, SAI Global is now even better positioned to assist organisations with their product certification requirements. Both Mr Paul Orlowski and Enertech co-founder, Mr Peter King, will continue to be part of the combined SAI Global and Enertech team.

The purchase consideration of A$4M will be funded from cash reserves.
