Australasian and RDI Merger Timing Revised

Further to the announcement made on 31 October 2008, Australasian Resources Ltd ("Australasian") (ASX:ARH) has been informed that the listing of Resource Development International Ltd ("RDI") on the Hong Kong Stock Exchange ("HKSE") will not occur before the end of calendar year 2008.

RDI is continuing to advance its application for a listing on the HKSE and, to this end, is preparing a draft prospectus for review by the HKSE before the public release to prospective investors.

RDI and Australasian are continuing to work together to prepare the scheme booklet and implement the proposed merger of Australasian and RDI as soon as practicable.

Australasian expects to receive detailed information about RDI for inclusion in the scheme booklet following receipt of RDI's draft prospectus. The merger remains conditional on RDI receiving HKSE listing approval.

The scheme booklet will be provided to shareholders following Court approval and will include a copy of the Independent Expert's Report which will be finalised following receipt of the additional RDI information. The timing of the release of the scheme booklet to shareholders and implementation of the merger therefore remains subject to RDI's timetable.

Concurrently with the RDI merger process, Australasian will continue to progress the key requirements to develop its flagship Balmoral South Iron Ore Project and will continue to keep the market informed of developments.
