Auckland Airport announces executive team change

Auckland Airport today announced Jonathan Good, General Manager Technology and Marketing, will be stepping away from his role after almost four years with the organisation.

Mr Good joined Auckland Airport in 2019, overseeing the strategy and delivery of technology and marketing platforms to meet Auckland Airport's current and future growth needs.

Auckland Airport Chief Executive Carrie Hurihanganui said: "Jonathan has led the marketing and technology team through one of the toughest periods in our history, delivering critical resiliency projects and major programmes of work during the pandemic. This important work has helped to put Auckland Airport in a strong position for the recovery and to support our future growth ambitions. Jonathan's decided it's the right time to step away and take up a new opportunity with an exciting start-up venture, and we wish him all the best for the future."

Mr Good will remain in his role until the end of April 2023, with Auckland Airport to soon begin the process of appointing his replacement.
