(h) WIAL's EBITDAF before subvention payment is presented to provide further information on its operating performance. The Board and management consider it is a useful non-GAAP financial measure for investors as it shows the contribution to earnings prior to non-cash items such as depreciation and amortisation and fair value adjustments, and before the cost of financing, subvention payments and taxation. EBITDAF before subvention payment is used by management in conjunction with other performance measures to monitor financial performance. It is calculated by adjusting net profit after taxation for the year for subvention payments and for items that are non-operating such as interest, taxation, depreciation, revaluations and impairments. The adjustments in the reconciliation table below have been subject to audit and are set out in Note A1 to the audited financial statements of WIAL.
