ASX 200 companies among three new clients for REFFIND

- Client list for REFFIND Employ continues rapid growth
- Highly regarded new clients spanning healthcare, media and financial services – two within ASX 200
- Version 2.3 application launched – new internal mobility feature

Employee engagement technology company REFFIND Limited (ASX:RFN) has signed three new ASX-listed clients who will begin using the REFFIND Employ product.

The new clients include:

- A household name in healthcare services with approximately 4,000 employees and a multi-billion dollar market capitalisation
- One of Australia's leading media providers across a variety of platforms with more than 5,000 employees
- A financial services business with more than 100,000 customers and approximately $1.8 billion in assets under management

The REFFIND Employ platform will be deployed by the new clients as they aim to improve upon employee engagement and their internal referral programs.

"These new signings are further evidence of the strong interest we are receiving from renowned companies in the ASX 200 and beyond," said REFFIND Co-Founder and Managing Director Jamie Pride.

"Outside of these larger corporates we are also achieving significant traction with smaller businesses thanks to our unique offering and highly competitive pricing."

Version 2.3 launched

Version 2.3 of the REFFIND application was launched this week, introducing the important new feature of internal mobility.

This new feature provides employees using the platform the ability to apply for a job themselves by swiping down on the job card. This is in addition to the existing REFFIND offering allowing employees to swipe right to refer the job to a contact, swipe left to dismiss the job or swipe up to view the job again at a later time.

The new internal mobility offering is expected to further increase the appeal of the REFFIND platform with employees and overall employee engagement for clients.
