ASX Release:

Update Regarding Austar Coal Mine Production

Yancoal confirms that the scheduled relocation of the longwall to Panel A8 at Austar Coal Mine has now been completed. Following successful commissioning, longwall production has now recommenced.

Recommencement of production is in accordance with the mine's operating schedule and Saleable coal production is expected to be within the previously forecasted range for 2014. Longwall panel A8 is expected to provide up to 12 months of production.

The investigation into the underground incident on 15 April 2014 is ongoing and development works have not recommenced at this time.

Yancoal is continuing to review all options for personnel responsible for development works, including the potential for reassignment to other operations at the Austar Coal Mine or alternative sites owned by the Yancoal Australia Group.
