AstiVita Update

AstiVita announces today that the current year to date loss is higher than the same corresponding period last year based on unaudited management accounts. This is due to the delay in sales of our sunscreen, not expected to commence now until February 2020 and a number of new products that failed to meet expectations and had to be liquidated at a loss. At this point, estimated half year loss will likely be $100,000 to $150,000 above corresponding period last year of $546,000.

AstiVita has witnessed solid growth in our Amazon Australia sales platform and anticipates that the Company's strategic direction is on track to achieve profits in FY21. AstiVita is expected to enter the e-commerce platform on Amazon in Europe and USA with a range of SPF rated products for their upcoming summer season.
