Fund Update August 2023

Market Commentary

Major equity indices were lower through August as mixed economic data and higher treasury yields made headlines. Data out of China also pointed to slowing Chinese economic activity and heightened financial instability particularly in its real estate sector. The S&P 500 Total Return Index was down 1.6% over the month. Annual CPI inflation in the U.S. saw a slight uptick to 3.2% in July from 3% in June due to base effects. At the Jackson Hole speech, Chair Powell noted that higher interest rates may be appropriate until the Federal Reserve is confident that inflation is trending sustainably towards its 2% inflation target. The U.S. dollar strengthened against all G10 currencies over the month. In Europe, the Euro STOXX 50, Germany DAX, and FTSE 100 total return indices were down 3.8%, 3.0%, and 2.5%, respectively, over the month. Macroeconomic data showed a large contraction in private sector activity with the Euro Area Composite PMI of 46.7 the lowest since November 2020. In Australia, August saw many companies report their FY23 full-year results with the S&P/ASX 300 Total Return Index returning -0.8% over the month. The Reserve Bank of Australia held the cash rate target at 4.1% in its August meeting.

Fund Update and Outlook

The Hyperion Global Growth Companies Fund (Managed Fund)* returned 0.7% for August, underperforming its benchmark (MSCI World Accumulation Index (AUD)) by 0.9%. Intuit Inc., Mastercard Incorporated, and Visa Inc. saw the largest positive share price movements, while Block Inc., Palantir Technologies Inc., and Roku Inc. saw the largest share price declines over the month.

The month of August was quieter as the market digested company results and further macroeconomic news. Hyperion was broadly pleased with our portfolio companies' quarterly results, which were in line with our long-term forecasts.

Economic data continues to show that the economic jolt from the pandemic is subsiding and stability in bond yields is being maintained. Stability is important as it allows confidence to come back into markets. Short-term valuations from higher bond yields look to have rebased and we are now importantly seeing our companies' underlying fundamentals and earnings be the basis for market valuations. Hyperion still believes that we will revert to a lower growth, lower inflation, and lower interest rate world and in fact we are starting to see that in some parts of Europe and Asia. A lower growth environment is much more favourable for growth investing.

Although we have seen strong performance for the year to date, we believe the long-term return outlook for our portfolio remains attractive, with forecast internal rates of return above their long-run averages.

Fund Features

- High-conviction portfolio of quality global listed equities from a research driven, bottom-up investment philosophy
- Investors can buy or sell units on ASX like any other listed security, or apply and redeem directly with the Responsible Entity
- This product is likely to be appropriate for a consumer seeking capital growth to be used as a small allocation within a portfolio where the consumer has a minimum investment timeframe of 5 years, and a high risk/return profile

We believe companies in our portfolio have:

- Predictable earnings
- Low debt
- High interest cover
- Sustainable competitive advantages
- High return on capital
- Strong free cash flow
- Organic growth options
- Experienced and proven management teams

Amazon.com, Inc. (Amazon) released its Q2 FY23 results ended June 30, 2023, reporting quarterly net sales growth of 11% YoY to US$134.4b, exceeding the upper end of guidance. Group operating income increased 132% to US$7.7b. The AWS segment continues to be the strongest revenue growth contributor, increasing by 12% to US$22.1b. Importantly, Amazon noted that customer cost optimisations, while ongoing, have stabilised. The North America segment grew sales by 11% YoY to $85.5b, while international sales increased 10% to $29.7b. By division, Advertising and Third-party seller services had the strongest growth at 22% and 18%, respectively, YoY. Subscription Services, Physical Stores and Online Stores grew at 14%, 7% and 5%, respectively, YoY. Despite the evolving macroeconomic conditions, management notes its continued progress on controllable costs, with particular focus on improving the productivity of its fulfilment network. Amazon provided a strong Q3 2023 outlook with net sales expected to be between US$138.0b and US$143.0bn, or growth between 9% and 13% compared to the prior corresponding period.

Airbnb, Inc. (ABNB-US)

Primary Exchange NASDAQ
GICS Sector Consumer Discretionary
Market Cap (US$m) 64,888

Airbnb, Inc. (Airbnb) reported their Q2 FY23 result, reporting an 18% increase in revenue from US$2.1b to US$2.5b (+19% in Constant Currency (CC)), driven by solid growth in Nights and Experiences Booked and slightly higher Average Daily Rate which grew 1% YoY (or 2% YoY in CC). Adjusted EBITDA increased 15% on the prior corresponding period (pcp) to US$819m. Nights and Experiences increased 11% on the pcp to US$115.1b, driven by growth across all regions. Gross Booking Value increased to US$19.1b, up 13% YoY. Active listings grew 19% YoY, with strong growth across all geographic regions, market types and price points. Airbnb added more active listings this quarter than in any previous quarter with active listings now exceeding 7 million. For 3Q23, Airbnb expects to see revenue grow between 14% and 18% on the pcp and are expecting modest sequential growth in Nights and Experiences Booked between Q2FY23 and Q3FY23. Management also expects to achieve record adjusted EBITDA next quarter, supported by higher margins when compared to Q3 FY22.
