FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE<sup>6</sup>

Revised Proposal by BHP

BHP confirms that on 7 May 2024 it made a revised proposal to the Board of Directors of Anglo American regarding a potential combination to be effected by way of a scheme of arrangement (Revised Proposal). BHP's proposal comprises an all-share offer for Anglo American subject to the pro-rata distribution by Anglo American of its entire shareholdings in Anglo American Platinum Ltd (Anglo Platinum) and Kumba Iron Ore Ltd (Kumba) to Anglo American shareholders immediately before completion of the scheme of arrangement. The Revised Proposal follows BHP's initial proposal for a potential combination with Anglo American which was made to the Board of Directors of Anglo American on 16 April 2024 (Initial Proposal).

The Revised Proposal was rejected by the Anglo American Board on 13 May 2024. BHP is disappointed that the Anglo American Board has chosen not to engage with BHP with respect to the Revised Proposal and the improved terms. BHP continues to believe that a combination of the two businesses would deliver significant value for all shareholders.

Structure of Revised Proposal

The Revised Proposal reflects BHP's transaction structure set out in the Initial Proposal. Under the Revised Proposal, BHP has increased the number of BHP shares that would be received by Anglo American shareholders.

Under the terms of the Revised Proposal, ordinary shareholders of Anglo American would receive:

- 0.8132 BHP shares for each ordinary share they own in Anglo American (BHP Share Consideration), which represents Anglo American shareholders owning, in aggregate, approximately 16.6% of the combined BHP and Anglo American group on completion of the potential combination; and
- ordinary shares in Anglo Platinum and Kumba (which would be distributed by Anglo American to its shareholders in direct proportion to each shareholder's effective interest in Anglo Platinum and Kumba) (the Demergers).

BHP confirms that the transaction structure has been designed to ensure the Demergers are sequenced to complete immediately before the scheme of arrangement becomes effective, which will result in Anglo American shareholders receiving shares in Anglo Platinum and Kumba when they receive the BHP Share Consideration. BHP would also assume the liabilities of Anglo American on completion, which would include the costs associated with completing the Demergers and any other transaction related costs.

BHP is committed to a combination that leverages the best of both BHP and Anglo American and intends to offer Anglo American up to two positions on the Board of the combined entity.

The Revised Proposal is non-binding and subject to customary conditions including completion of due diligence to the satisfaction of BHP. Anglo American has been offered reciprocal due diligence on BHP.

BHP will work closely and constructively with competition regulators and provide the information they need to assess the potential transaction. BHP is confident that it can obtain all required regulatory approvals and consummate a transaction that benefits customers globally.

Mike Henry, BHP Chief Executive Officer said:

“BHP put forward a revised proposal to the Anglo American Board that we strongly believe would be a win-win for BHP and Anglo American shareholders. We are disappointed that this second proposal has been rejected.

The revised proposal represents a 15% increase in the merger exchange ratio and increases Anglo American shareholders’ aggregate ownership in the combined group to 16.6% from 14.8% in BHP’s first proposal.

BHP and Anglo American are a strategic fit and the combination is a unique and compelling opportunity to unlock significant synergies by bringing together two highly complementary, world class businesses. The combined business would have a leading portfolio of high-quality assets in copper, potash, iron ore and metallurgical coal and BHP would bring its track record of operational excellence to maximise returns from these high-quality assets.

The combined business would also have the balance sheet strength, capital discipline and operational capability to execute the attractive pipeline of growth options in BHP and Anglo American’s portfolios.

In putting forward a revised proposal, we have been guided by our capital allocation framework and our view of the fundamental value of Anglo American and BHP.

The combination is consistent with BHP’s strategy and the revised proposal is underpinned by a focus on delivering long term fundamental value.”

Value of Revised Proposal

The terms of the Revised Proposal represent an increase over the Initial Proposal:

- of 14.6% in the merger exchange ratio<sup>1</sup> and the BHP Share Consideration;
- from 14.8% to 16.6% in Anglo American shareholders’ aggregate ownership in the combined group on completion of the potential combination;
- of 14.2% in the undisturbed value offered (in US$ billion, as at 23 April 2024 being the last trading day before the press speculation about the Initial Proposal) for Anglo American’s unlisted assets<sup>2,3</sup>; and
- of 11.0% in the spot value offered (in US$ billion, as at 13 May 2024) for Anglo American’s unlisted assets<sup>4</sup> compared to the undisturbed value.

The terms of the Revised Proposal represent a total value, based on undisturbed share prices, of approximately £27.53 per Anglo American ordinary share including £4.86 in Anglo Platinum shares and £3.40 in Kumba shares, valuing Anglo American’s share capital at approximately £34 billion, and implying a:

- premium on the undisturbed market value of Anglo American’s unlisted assets of approximately 50% (in US$ billion, as at 23 April 2024 being the last trading day before the press speculation about the Initial Proposal);

- premium on the undisturbed market value of Anglo American's unlisted assets<sup>2</sup> of approximately 104% based on the volume weighted average closing price of Anglo American's shares (adjusted for the attributable volume weighted average closing prices of Anglo Platinum and Kumba) in the 90 trading days prior to and including 23 April 2024; and
- 37% premium to the broker median net asset value<sup>5</sup> of Anglo American's unlisted assets based on Anglo American's undisturbed closing price and FX rates on 23 April 2024 and a 33% premium based on spot share prices and FX rates on 10 May 2024 (and 13 May for BHP share price). The terms of the Revised Proposal represent a total value, based spot share prices and FX rates on 10 May 2024 for Anglo Platinum and Kumba shares and 13 May 2024 for BHP shares of approximately £27.94 per Anglo American ordinary share.

BHP believes that this Revised Proposal represents a compelling opportunity for long term fundamental value-creation for both sets of shareholders.

Benefits to Anglo American shareholders

The benefits of the Revised Proposal to Anglo American shareholders and other stakeholders include:

- The combination would allow Anglo American shareholders to realise a greater immediate and substantial premium over the current value of their Anglo American shares. The Revised Proposal represents a price that is significantly above the broker median net asset value of Anglo American excluding Anglo Platinum and Kumba, and the undisturbed equity value of Anglo American on 23 April 2024, being the last trading day before the press speculation about the Initial Proposal.
- The combination would bring together the strengths of BHP and Anglo American in an optimal structure and unlock value for Anglo American shareholders. The combined group would have a leading portfolio of large, low-cost, long-life Tier 1 assets focused on iron ore and metallurgical coal and future facing commodities, including potash and copper. Anglo American would bring its assets and long-term growth potential. BHP would bring its operational capability and disciplined capital allocation to optimise the sequencing of growth projects in order to maximise returns. BHP would have the financial strength and project execution capability to advance the combined group's growth projects, while continuing its commitment to shareholder returns.
- The combination would also deliver meaningful synergies across procurement, operations and marketing, and through the BHP Operating System and sharing of best practice, which would enhance profitability and value for Anglo American shareholders. BHP and Anglo American's strong relationships with suppliers and BHP's global procurement model are expected to deliver procurement synergies. BHP would also seek to optimise supply chains, product blending, sales and logistics routes to create marketing synergies. Furthermore, the proximity of various assets of the combined BHP and Anglo American group would allow for operational synergies.
- The combined entity would retain BHP's global listings on the ASX, LSE, JSE and NYSE and BHP has monthly share trading liquidity of approximately US$10 billion.
- The Revised Proposal would provide Anglo American shareholders with the benefits of directly holding their interests in Anglo Platinum (78.6%), the world's leading platinum group metals miner, and Kumba (69.7%) as shareholders, including enabling direct access to the future value generation and dividends of Anglo Platinum and Kumba. Anglo Platinum and Kumba each hold a portfolio of high quality assets which has delivered strong returns to their shareholders. South Africa will continue to benefit from Anglo Platinum and Kumba as major standalone South African mining companies and they would be better placed to reinvest in South Africa. Under the proposed structure, shares for Anglo Platinum and Kumba would continue to be listed on the Johannesburg Stock Exchange (JSE), a mature and highly liquid exchange, and both companies would continue to be run by established South African based management teams. BHP intends to maintain its listing on the JSE and is expected to achieve a JSE index weighting of approximately 5% on completion.

Anglo American has a deep pool of talented people who would make a valuable contribution to the successful operation of the combined group's assets. BHP believes the combination would also be attractive to local communities and host governments. A combined BHP and Anglo American would have greater financial strength which could support further development and investment in the communities where the combined group operates.

Benefits to BHP shareholders

The benefits to BHP shareholders include:

- increasing BHP's exposure to future facing commodities through Anglo American's world class copper assets and further aligning the portfolio to the global megatrends;
- complementing BHP's iron ore and metallurgical coal portfolios with Anglo American's high quality iron ore operations in Brazil and metallurgical coal assets in Queensland, Australia;
- providing Anglo American's value adding copper growth options and increased geographic diversification of its operating footprint; and
- delivering meaningful synergies and value through the combination.

Anglo American's other high quality businesses, including its diamond business, would be subject to a strategic review post completion.

BHP is committed to its capital allocation framework and maintains a disciplined approach to mergers and acquisitions.
