Kalamazoo Secures Top-Flight Team for the Ashburton Gold Project

Kalamazoo Resources Limited (“Kalamazoo” or “the Company”) is pleased to announce that it has secured two, highly credentialed Senior Exploration Geologists for its newly acquired Ashburton Gold Project in Western Australia.

Key Points

- Matthew Rolfe joins Kalamazoo as Senior Exploration Geologist for the Ashburton Gold Project.
- Matthew has extensive experience over both Archean and Proterozoic terrains and comes to Kalamazoo directly from Northern Star Resources, where he was the Senior Exploration Geologist for the Pilbara Region.
- His deep understanding of the Ashburton Gold Project will be particularly beneficial to Kalamazoo and will play an important part in expediting our exploration program at the project.
- Kalamazoo has also secured Dr Margaret “Margy” Hawke as Senior Exploration Geologist for the Ashburton Gold Project.
- Margy was awarded 2010 AMEC Prospector of the Year and is jointly credited with the discovery of Sandfire’s DeGrussa Copper-Gold Deposit.
- Margy holds a PhD in Economic Geology from the University of Tasmania.

Commenting on Kalamazoo’s additions to its West Australian-based technical team, Kalamazoo’s Non-Executive Director and Ashburton Project Manager Paul Adams said:

“Kalamazoo has been extremely fortunate in securing these two highly credentialed and highly regarded individuals. Matt and Margy are both extremely experienced and will form the nucleus of our technical capacity at Ashburton, as we move quickly to generate value from this significant gold system. Both have come to Kalamazoo recognising the significant opportunity that the Ashburton Gold Project brings to the company and we warmly welcome Matt and Margy to the Kalamazoo team.”

“With Matt and Margy bolstering our existing team in WA, Kalamazoo has significant technical and management capacity in both Victoria and Western Australia. This is now more important than ever and means that the Company can continue to conduct significant exploration programs in each jurisdiction, unhindered by travel restrictions imposed due to Covid-19.”
