xTV Networks Ltd ("xTV" the "Company") (ASX: XTV) is pleased to announce its engagement with the Cedars-Sinai Heart Institute to develop and manage an innovative series of cloud TV networks. The Heart Institute unites 16 centers and programs to diagnose and treat the full spectrum of heart conditions for all patients.

The cloud-based TV network will provide educational programming for patients as well as for physicians. Initially, patient programming will focus on advanced heart failure and heart transplantation – engaging these patients in learning about their condition and in being an active participant in their own care. Physician programming will allow physicians from all over the country to join Cedars-Sinai Heart Institute Grand Rounds and selected conferences without having to travel to the Cedars-Sinai campus.

"Being selected by the Heart Institute illustrates xTV's continued success in the healthcare market" said Rick Hazell, Senior Vice President of Sales and Marketing at xTV.
